

Laird Wants to Press Missile System Work

Letter From Vietnam

Good Guys Don't Always Win

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — "War is all the horrible things a human being can do to another human being because he has not learned to love..." These were the words of Air Force Maj. Victor Colasuonno in answer to a query from the fourth grade class at Church of the Magdalen Catholic School here, of which his son, Kenneth, is a member. Major Colasuonno, a pilot, was killed in action last week in Vietnam where he had been assigned since June. Services were held here Wednesday. While in Vietnam he had written regularly to the school where his three sons, Kenneth, Bobby and Stephen, and daughter Patty attend. Colasuonno was stationed at McConnell Air Force Base here before going to Vietnam. Some of the fourth grade boys had written at Christmas time and had asked, "What is war?"

Cites Threat Of Soviets, Red Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today he personally tends to approve construction of an antiballistic missile system to defend the United States against missile attacks.

But he emphasized he is not prejudging the review he has ordered on the controversial Sentinel system. And he said he would want to be free, in the event an ABM system is approved, to deploy missiles if he felt them necessary even if disarmament talks were going on with the Soviet Union.

Laird cited increased Soviet and Red Chinese missile capabilities in stating this position. "I'm not trying to prejudge the review that is now underway," the defense chief told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "but I want to be frank with this committee. I personally lean toward going forward with (an ABM) system. It might very well be needed."

Laird reported the Soviet Union is going forward with tests on a "sophisticated new antiballistic missile system" and this will weigh heavily in the U.S. decision on a missile shield. Laird told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the United States might want to go ahead with its suspended $5.5 billion Sentinel system even if the two major nuclear powers agree to begin talks on strategic arms limitations.

Talks May Me Long "I would not want to say we would not go forward with this particular system," Laird said. "These talks could take a long period of time."

He stressed that no decision has been made on whether to go ahead with deployment of the controversial ABM system.

But speaking in support of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty under consideration by the committee, Laird was pressed by Chairman J. W. Fulbright as to whether he would engage immediately in disarmament talks once the treaty is ratified.

It was at this point Laird revealed the Soviet Union not only has gone forward with its own ABM system, but "it is testing a sophisticated new ABM system, on the basis of the best information available to me."

"Could Hit U.S." And he said, "I believe the Chinese will test fire an ICBM test missile in the next 18 months. It will have a stockpile by 1975 of 20 to 30 ICBMs that could hit the United States."

Last week, Laird estimated the Chinese potential stockpile at 18 to 20 missiles, with no estimated date of readiness.

Pointing to this information, Laird told Fulbright "I must take into consideration the national security of the United States and the safety of our people."

"I would not want to be precluded, merely because talks had started under the treaty from going forward with this particular (ABM) system if the review now under way results in such a decision," he added. "I Turn to Page 2, Col. 8

Worldwide Investigation

Foreign Aid Probe Planned by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators, reporting "shocking disclosures of widespread corruption" in a U.S. Vietnam aid program, now plan a worldwide look at American overseas assistance.

Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the investigations subcommittee, said today the global review was needed to "eliminate and prevent the economic, illegal and corrupt practices by which taxpayers' dollars have been siphoned."

He commented in submitting to the Senate a report of the subcommittee's two-year investigation of the commodity-import program in Vietnam. Among its findings:

"Dishonesty and fraud involving kickbacks, ineligible commissions, excessive and exorbitant prices, shipments of products without value or utility and violations of U.S. or South Vietnamese regulations."

"Diversion of American dollars to bank accounts, in Switzerland and elsewhere, of South Vietnamese importers, with an adverse effect on the U.S. balance of payments."

McClellan also noted that the Agency for International Development, which administers the foreign-aid program, had cooperated in the investigation and had acted to correct abuses uncovered.

At the same time, McClellan faulted the agency for what he said was "failure to act swiftly and decisively" when some of the abuses were first disclosed.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a member of the investigations subcommittee, said in a minority report that, while extensive improprieties were uncovered in Vietnam, the disclosures "led to major corrective action by AID or to indictment of wrongdoers."

McClellan set no timetable for the global investigation.

The report summarized specific cases that were aired at public hearings in 1967 and 1968. Some of them have become famous. They include the $250,000 purchase of a product the maker claimed would make an automobile battery last for 10 years. The National Bureau of Standards said it was "without merit."

And there was the purchase, also with AID funds, of ocean water in medicinal capsules labeled "Biocean."

OK Given to Start Apollo Countdown

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — On the seventh anniversary of John Glenn's historic orbit flight, the three Apollo 9 astronauts have passed their final major preflight test and are ready to take man's next step toward the moon.

Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt, Air Force Lt. Col. David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart participated in a critical countdown rehearsal Wednesday. Launch officials termed it successful and gave the go-ahead to start the lengthy final countdown at 11:50 p.m. EST Saturday.

Egypt Embassy Told It 'Will be Bombed'

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The Egyptian Embassy asked the Swiss police for protection today following an anonymous warning that it would be bombed this week.

The threat came in a telex message to the Bern bureau of the newspaper Blic. Unsigned and in French, it said: "The embassy of the U.A.R. will be bombed this week."

Northwest Passage Crews Try to Capture Islands

HOUSTON (AP) — A special four-man crew plans to spend the next 40 days or so spraying water on a couple of huge chunks of ice in the Arctic Ocean.

The scientific study is part of a high priority project aimed at determining whether a year-round tanker route by way of the Northwest Passage is feasible for transporting oil from Alaska's Arctic Slope to East Coast refineries.

The experiment, became possible Jan. 26 when it was discovered unexpectedly that two huge "ice islands" had grounded themselves in 90 feet of water just 20 to 30 miles north of the Frudhoe Bay area where two oil wells with great production potentials were completed last year.

It is conceivable that tankers the two large ones involved in some day will be using the ice islands as moorings.

"This is a God given opportunity to find out what we want to know," said Stanley B. Haas, project manager of the Arctic marine task force of the Humble Oil & Refining Co.

"Exceedingly Rare" Hiding enthusiasm is impossible for Dr. Harold R. Peyton, a University of Alaska Arctic engineering expert who is a consultant to Humble on the ice islands study.

"Having ice islands in this area is a very unusual circumstance, exceedingly rare," Peyton said. "It is so rare it perhaps happens only every 100 years. No one really knows."

But about 75 islands of varying sizes suddenly appeared off the north slope in January and

Flight Delayed By Bomb Threat At JFK Airport

NEW YORK (AP) — A Trans World Airlines jet bound for Israel was delayed at Kennedy Airport nearly three hours today after receipt of a telephone bomb threat. Port of New York authority police reported.

Police said a woman called TWA reservations shortly before 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and said, "There's a bomb on the next flight leaving for Asia or Asia Minor. It will explode and all will be killed."

TWA flight 840 with 132 passengers aboard was at that moment preparing to taxi out for takeoff on a flight to Tel Aviv with stops at Rome and Athens. The passengers were taken off and the plane and baggage inspected.

No bomb was found but three of the passengers canceled their reservations and stayed behind when the flight finally departed at 1:15 a.m.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Spec. 4 Clarence C. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Adams of Milwaukee, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Pentagon announced Wednesday.

President Nixon presented this explosive of the Department of Interior during a White House visit.

Lodge Favors Geneva Accords

Negotiators in Paris Don't Agree on 'Common Ground'

PARIS (AP) — The United States insisted today that common ground exists at the Vietnam peace talks to bring the conflict to an end, but the atmosphere of deadlock deepened as Hanoi and the National Liberation Front stuck by their all-or-nothing demands.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the North Vietnamese and the NLF that the 1954 Geneva accords provide the common ground, and that it was in the spirit of the basic principles of those accords that the Americans had made their proposals for a military de-escalation.

Lodge claimed the other side recognized last week that the solution of military issues is an absolutely essential first step for the creation of conditions in which political problems can be resolved. He recalled that the Hanoi-Front side had called the withdrawal of troops a fundamental question.

"Thus," he said, "your side and our side seem to agree that military issues and particularly the question of withdrawal of military forces are of key importance to an overall settlement."

This session of the talks lasted 5 hours and 25 minutes, the shortest of a full plenary session to date by about 45 minutes. Both sides agreed to meet again next Thursday.

The NLF and North Vietnam restated in tough terms a demand that the United States

"completely and unconditionally" withdraw troops "and those of its satellites" from South Vietnam.

If anything, the words of the NLF delegate, Tran Binh Kien, were more acrimonious than ever. He compared the U.S. government to the former East regimes of Germany, Italy and Japan.

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy supported the NLF delegate, including his demand that the future of South Vietnam be settled "according to the political program" of the front. The Americans regard this demand as a call for complete U.S. surrender in advance of any settlement.

They dismissed as "perfidious maneuvers" the U.S. proposals of previous weeks for gradual military de-escalation on both sides.

Thus, the deadlock seemed at least as stubborn as ever at the 14th of the four-day full dress sessions of the four delegations at the 14th national Conference Center.

Lodge responded that the other side by making sweeping and unconditional demands, was not using the "language of negotiation."

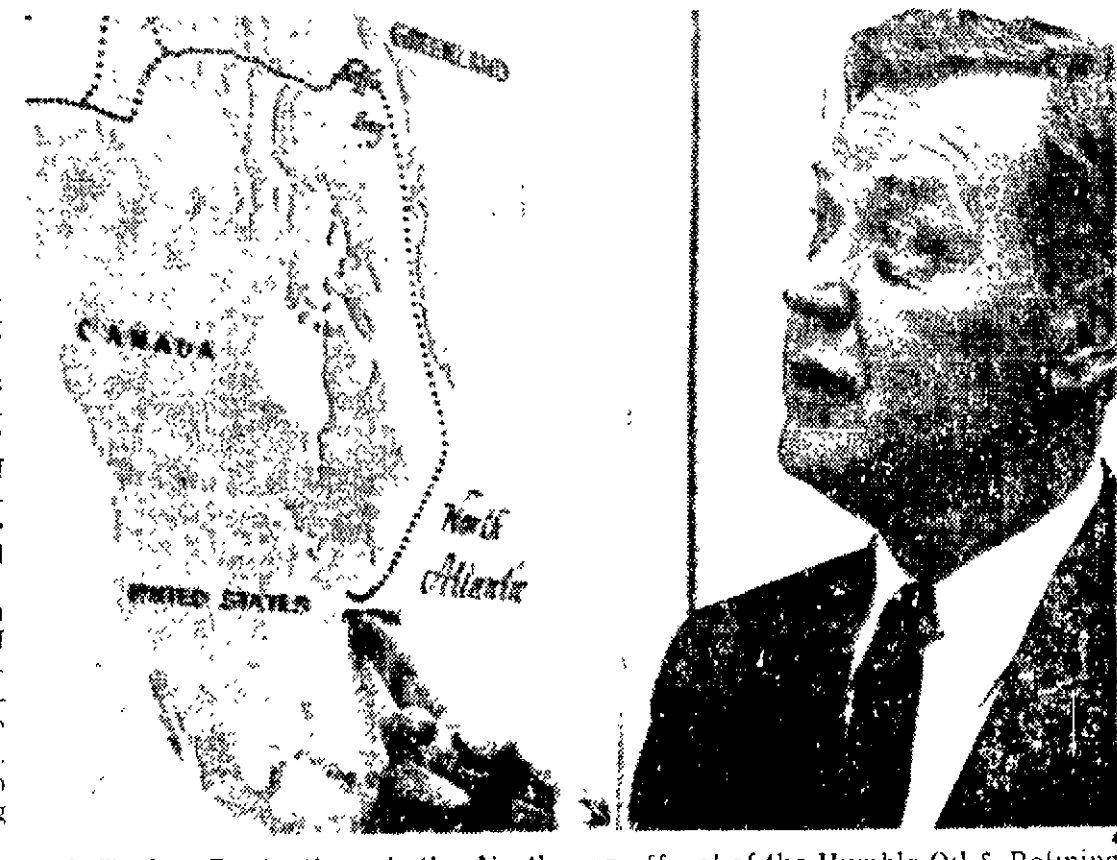

"Nothing in Return" "We have sought to identify common ground upon which the structure of peace in Vietnam could be built," Lodge said. "However, your side has rejected this approach. You have offered no concrete proposals in return. You have even, it seems, rejected the fundamental objective of our negotiations, which is to find common ground."

Lodge urged that attention be focused on the 1954 Geneva accords which opened the French doors of the war and divider of the people and brush hogs Vietnam between North and South.

The United States "supports the principles of military disengagement and the withdrawal of external forces from Vietnam."

Last Will, Testament
Is Something Like This

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There are few rites on earth more solemn than making out a last will and testament.

Everybody keeps warning you that you should do it, and sooner or later most people do. Here's how it sometimes operates.

You go into the law firm of Zincorn, Samilovitch O'Brannigan and Smuggles and tell the receptionist you want to make out your will. She casts a dubious look at your frayed collar and scuffed shoes and suggests you see Mr. Smuggles.

Smuggles, it turns out, is the junior member of the firm—the son-in-law of Mr. Zincorn—and the ink on his law degree is still somewhat damp.

"Who would you like to serve as your executor?" asks Smuggles. When you suggest that he will do just fine, he smiles like three Cheshire cats. He pulls out a pad of large yellow paper and starts putting down the data.

Real Estate

"Do you own any real estate?" "Yeah, a cemetery lot."

"Well," says Smuggles tactfully, "Perhaps you'll want to save that for yourself. Any bonds?"

"Nope."

"Any stock market investments?"

"Nope."

"What value do you place on your home?"

"You'll have to ask my landlord. It belongs to him."

"I see," says Smuggles, his smile beginning to fade. "How about your insurance?"

"Oh, that's already made out to mother. I think that's only fair, seeing as how she's been making the payment on it herself the last five years."

Valuable Shells

"H-m-m-m. Do you have any valuable collections of any kind?"

"You mean those seashells I picked up at Coney Island, or the collection of knots I keep in the basement which I tied when I was a kid to win my first Boy Scout merit badge?"

"Well, I guess we can forget those," says Smuggles, beginning to draw doodles on his pad. "How about your valuable personal possessions?"

"All I got is my old clothes and a varsity sweater I won for making my college wrestling squad. I thought I'd leave those to the Salvation Army—that is, if they think it's worth the trouble."

"How about your savings account?"

"What savings account?"

"Don't you have anything of value you want to leave to someone?"

"Yeah, I got a lot of free advice and—oh, yes, a $1 New York State lottery ticket that'll be worth $100,000 if I win."

Down to $51.13

"Don't you even have a checking account?"

"Yep, but right now it's down to $51.13."

"Why in the world do you want to make out a last will and testament?" demands Smuggles.

"Well," you reply, "everybody says if you don't make one out the government will take everything you own."

Smuggles sighs, calls in a typist, and a few minutes later hands you a copy of your will, which you sign and he has witnessed. It all takes up only a third of a page.

"What's your fee?"

"It is just $51.13," says Smuggles smiling bleakly.

As you fill out the check, you note that leaves you with just two cents in the world. But you depart with a feeling of sublime serenity. You have protected your heirs, you have made out your will, and no government on Earth can break it.

Change in Selection Of Judges Attacked

Waukesha County Circuit Judge Clair Voss, candidate for the Wisconsin Supreme Court, has attacked proposals to adopt the "Missouri Plan" for selection of judges in Wisconsin.

The Missouri Plan provides for appointment of judges by the governor based on recommendations by a blue ribbon panel.

Judge Voss, who is opposing Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows in the April election, said the people should be able to select their officials. "Judges in a selective system are not responsive to the people," Judge Voss said.

He charged that Justice Hallows has supported the Missouri Plan for selecting judges.

"The Wisconsin system is a substantial part of our government and should be maintained," Judge Voss added.

Judge Voss also contended Justice Hallows was running for re-election without informing the people he would not be able to complete the 10-year term. Justice Hallows will reach the mandatory retirement age of 70 before the end of the term.

Judge Voss is a native of Antigo and a graduate of Marquette University Law School. He served as assistant district attorney of Waukesha County for six years before being elected Circuit Judge in 1960. He was re-elected in 1965.

Court Refuses To Order Job Held for Roth

MADISON (AP)—A temporary restraining order, which would have held open the job of an Oshkosh State University professor whose contract was not renewed, was denied Wednesday in federal court.

U.S. District Judge James Doyle denied the request from the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) for David P. Roth, a political science professor whose association with the school was terminated after he was critical of the administration's handling of black student disorders.

Roth's attorney contended that his ouster was a violation of the free speech clause of the first amendment to The Constitution. They claimed that Roth was fired because of his vocal opposition to administration policy and added that reasons for the decision were never announced formally.

Lawyers for Oshkosh said there was no reason to clarify the removal, but they later added that Roth was often absent from class and he failed to give a final examination in one course.

Judge Doyle said that he will hear a motion at a later date for Roth's reinstatement at the university.

Mrs. W. B. Thompson, of Appleton, an organizer of the city's Newcomer's Club 20 years ago, has been cited by Gov. Warren Knowles.

He said, "Making people feel at home in their community, substituting friendship for loneliness in their lives, and building a civic spirit offer important opportunities that, unfortunately, are too often missed."

Mrs. Thompson has called on 5,000 new families since the club was formed in 1949.

Morgan School Property Favored For Housing Project for Elderly

HUD Grant Appeal Still Unanswered

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

The Morgan School property on the city's near northeast side is the No. 1 choice of the Appleton Housing Authority for the site of a proposed multi-million dollar housing for the elderly development.

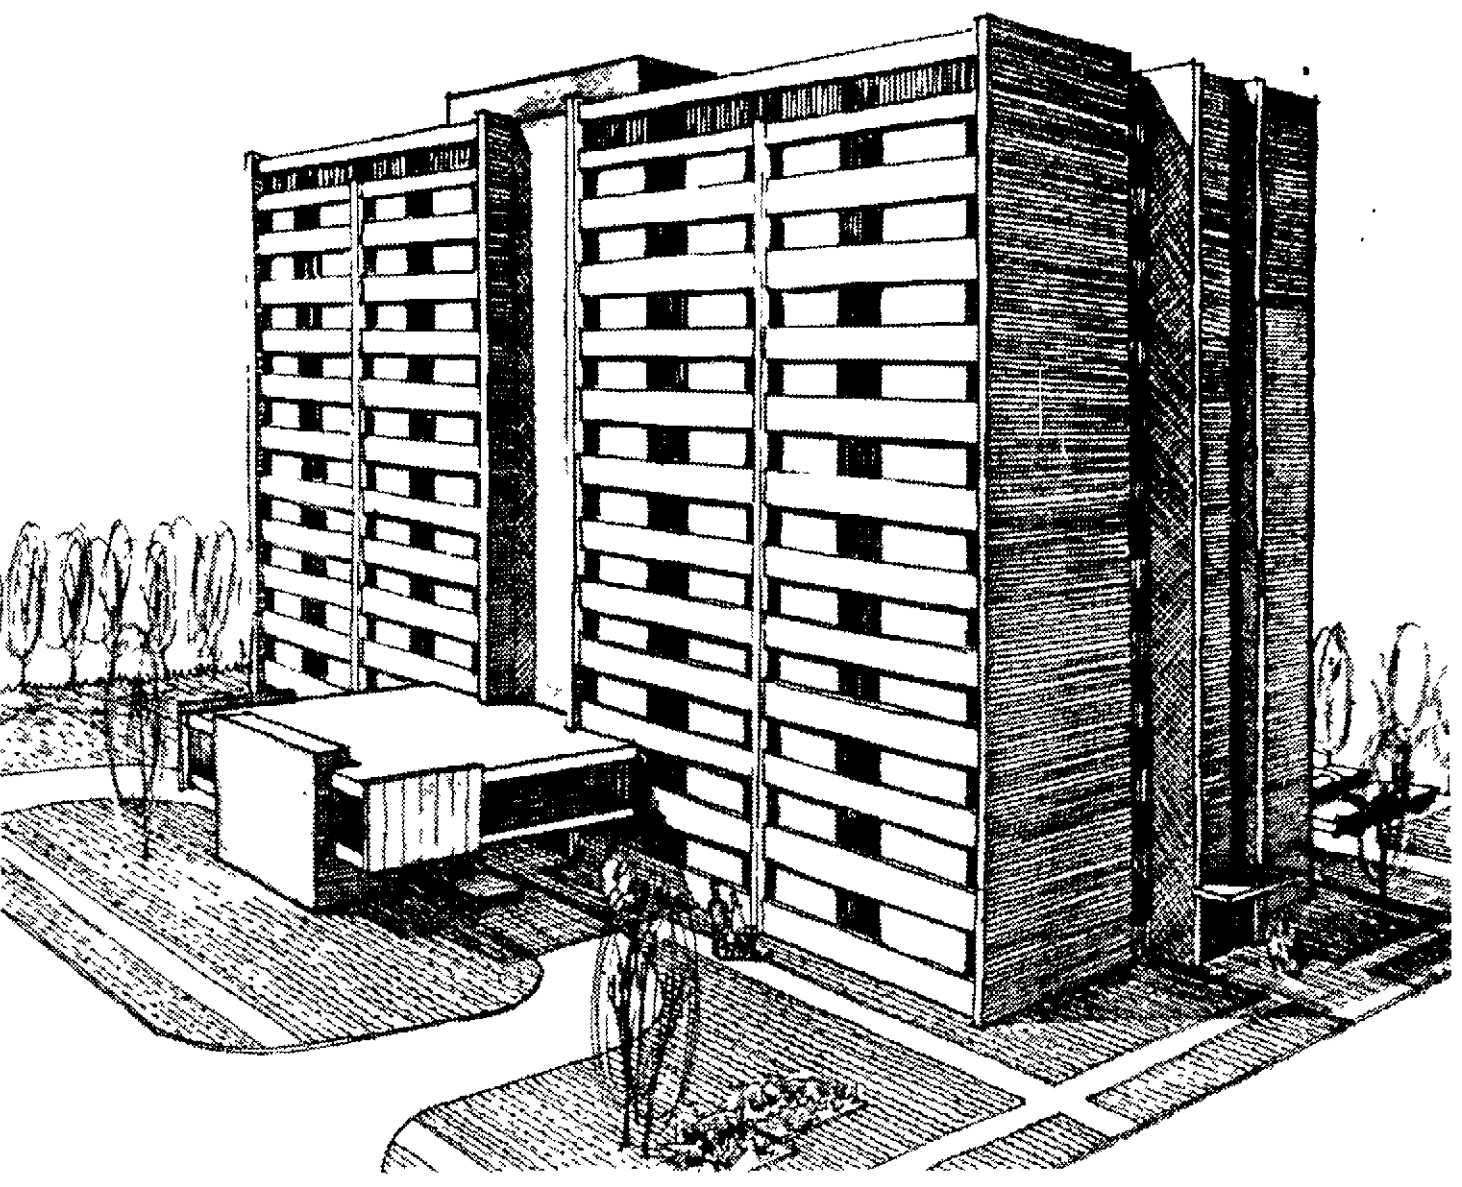

Selection of the location after several weeks of deliberation is expected to be announced Friday by Leon Jensen, housing authority chairman, at a press conference scheduled in the mayor's conference room at the city hall.

However, there is still no word from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that Appleton's application for a 200-living-unit project, estimated to cost about $3 million, has received final approval.

Optimism Expressed on Land Purchase for Plamann Park

Proposed Development Would Have Golf Course, Campsites

A State Bureau of Planning and Aid Programs official expressed optimism this morning the 147 acres located on the Outagamie County could northwest side of Plamann, Conservation (LAWCON) fund-

Option Runs Out
Karras urged immediate action because the land option runs out in the spring and the property probably will then go on sale in lots. An Appleton attorney holds the option and has offered it to the county.

Karras said he envisions the Plamann recreation complex would be a "total complex in the true sense of the word," complete with an 18-hole golf course, children's natural wildlife area (a type of zoo), campsites and other recreation facilities.

Committee members had night to find out whether both grave doubts about the effects projects could be funded in a five-year park plan and priority list and the desirability of Mills indicated they could wildlife area at Plamann.

On receiving Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) fund-this morning, after he questioning up to 50 per cent, Hervey

ed Mills about matching LAW-said: "I would be very doubtful."

Priority List
He predicted the purchase would be at the bottom of the federal LAWCON priority listing for fiscal 1970.

The reason, he said, is because the project is not in the five-year priority list or the comprehensive park plan.

Based on this, "I don't think for both projects next fall when the (regional planning) commission could support your application," he told Karras, noting the other projects on the list cannot be ignored.

Next on the list is a potential park site near the Fox River and Kaukauna. The county park committee and the health and recreation committee of Kaukauna will meet next week for a possible joint effort to develop the 13-acre Fox River site.

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, park committee chairman, said to include the 147-acre parcel in the program would mean revising the priority listing. However, he warned that he would oppose any move that would jeopardize acquiring any other parklands, including the Fox River site. There could be a conflict with the Fox River site project, he said.

Future trips in the Appleton Fire Department's rescue squad will cost residents $25 instead of $16 as result of approval by the city council Wednesday night of a public safety committee recommendation.

The committee recommended the better than 30 per cent price hike for anyone being transported from the scene of a rescue run to a hospital or clinic over the objection of Fire Chief Roland Kuehn.

At the same time, the council decided the City of Appleton will not expand its ambulance service outside the corporate limits.

Private Services
The rate raise for rescue squad transportation is to keep the city in line with prices charged by the two local private ambulance services.

There is no charge for calling the rescue squad to the scene of an emergency or a private residence, it was emphasized.

Bad Weather Slows Search

Ex-Appleton Man, F111A Missing in Mountainous Area

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Almost continual bad weather has severely hampered the search for an Air Force F111A plane carrying a former Appleton man that has been missing in rugged Nevada or Utah mountains more than a week.

Capt. Robert E. Jobe, 31, formerly of Appleton and now living in Las Vegas, was a student pilot on the swept wing fighter-bomber that disappeared the night of Feb. 12 after taking off from Nellis Air Force Base here on a 750-mile detection-evidence mission to the Great Salt Lake and back.

Jobe, son of Mrs. T. J. Sherry, 1724 Hycrest Drive and son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. H. F. O'Brian, 714 E. Eldorado St., was brought to the United States from England to learn to fly the F111A. The only other crewman in the plane when it disappeared was Capt. William Funchlow, 30, Ventura, Calif.

Fog and snow showers interfered Wednesday with the search for the missing airplane. The same type of adverse mountain weather has restricted search efforts since last week.

Nine Civil Air Patrol planes from Utah and three from Arizona searched with 13 Air Force planes for the missing camouflaged craft on Wednesday. Up to 65 aircraft scoured the mountainous area at times over the weekend.

Several Civil Air Patrol planes that had been searching for Jobe's plane were called on Wednesday to hunt for a missing DC3 plane that went down in southwestern Nevada with 35 persons aboard.

Work on Project Will Start Soon

Council Okays Marcus Development

A Milwaukee developer, whose request to acquire 10 acres of land was approved by the city council Wednesday night, said today he will soon start construction on a $500,000

Northland Avenue and Ballard Road development of that area.

The property annexed into Marcus declared what the city was purchased on the have planned will be a great recommendation of the city asset to the city and people of the region.

Originally, Marcus just had plans for a bowling alley on less than five acres of property he owns next to the Northgate Shopping Center. But when the larger site property became available and included the city to sell so-called all city services, Marcus decided on a larger recreation complex.

The bowling alley, representing the first phase of a Marcus-financed recreation complex, will be similar to the 41 Bowl which the Milwaukee business-man owns.

"We intend to expedite construction and have the 24-lane facility in operation right after Labor Day," Marcus said.

Marcus also reaffirmed a previous announcement that he fully intends to eventually develop the entire 10 acres.

He said future projects include construction of a swimming pool, restaurant and pitch-and-put golf layout.

Marcus holds the Wisconsin franchise for Marc's Big Boy Restaurants and it is believed he plans to eventually open a similar facility.

Special Hours Set For Paying Taxes

KAUKAUNA — Special tax collection hours have been set from 9 a. m. to noon Saturday by Roger Belling, treasurer, to accommodate people unable to pay taxes during normal week-day hours.

This will be the final Saturday before the Feb. 28 deadline for persons who are paying taxes in full. Those paying on the installment plan have until July 31 to pay at the office of the city treasurer, said Belling.

Additional Funds Needed for Plamann Park Lake Project

An additional $11,100 will be needed for the man-made swimming lake project at Plamann Park, the Outagamie County Board's park committee decided Wednesday night.

The money, in addition to the $12,500 budgeted this year for the project, will be requested from the county board for the first of two shipments of silica sand and additional well drilling costs.

In both cases, the additional money is the result of unexpected costs. Some $9,000 will be for buying and hauling 3,600 cubic yards of white silica sand but original cost estimates were

Heart Fund Drive Planned Sunday

KAUKAUNA — Heart Sunday will be observed in the city this weekend with women volunteers making a door-to-door canvass to raise funds.

According to Mr. Gen. Anderson, drive chairman, to date $393 has been collected from business people and through special gifts.

Serving as finance chairman for the city will be Mrs. Jack H. Hengenberg. Mrs. Robert Hengenberg, Mrs. Jerome Paulson, Mrs. Alfred Schmidt, Mrs. Richard Eppinger, Mrs. William Pognant, Mrs. Joseph Shabliak, Mrs. Thomas Berg, Mrs. Melvin Mamville, Mrs. Lyle McGinnis and Mrs. George Wyngaert.

Large's Bill Given Preliminary Okay

Measure Would Cut Number of State Legislators From 133 to 80

MADISON — Support for a number would be reduced to 20 proposed constitutional amendment in the Senate and 60 in the Assembly to reduce the number of Assembly, the same proportions as now exist.

The measure would be introduced by Sen. Gerald D. Lorge, R-Belle Creek, was recommended by the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday.

Passage of the measure would mean that each congressional district in each Senate district and three Assembly districts in each Senate district.

Lorge told the committee that each senator would represent 200,000 persons and each assemblyman 60,000. He said savings in salaries and expenses would be a amount to more than $500,000.

County Lines
He has contended that the present requirement for Assembly districts to follow county lines was the reverse of the intent of re-apportionment. He added that Supreme Court rulings appear to have made the county line requirement unconstitutional.

Lorge said that state legislators could have more influence on rational actions by keeping Senate and Assembly districts within congressional district boundaries.

Lorge's district, Waupaca and Outagamie counties, is now split between the 7th and 8th congressional districts.

County Executive Bill Okayed by Legislature

MADISON — Wisconsin voters will be asked to act on a constitutional amendment referendum in April which, if approved, would permit counties to have elective executives with veto powers.

At present only Milwaukee County is permitted an elective county executive. The state's other 71 counties are bound by the constitution's "uniformity clause."

The last hurdle to placing the question on the ballot was cleared Wednesday when the Assembly passed the resolution by a 94-6 vote. The Senate earlier had given unanimous approval.

Two Sessions
Both bodies also had approved the measure in 1967.

A constitutional amendment must be passed by both legislative bodies in two consecutive sessions and then go to a statewide referendum.

Abolition of the uniformity clause for county government has been called for by both the Wisconsin County Boards Association and the Tarr Task Force on Local Government.

The uniformity clause requires that all counties, with the exception of Milwaukee, have the same type of government, regardless of size or population. Counties are permitted to have administrators, but not with veto or appointive powers.

The drive in the Senate for support of the bill was led by Sens. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, and Henry Dorman, D-Racine, both members of the Tarr Task Force.

Thieves Take Clothes From Salesman's Car

David Thompson, a salesman from Minneapolis, reported to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department this morning that $600 worth of sample clothing was stolen from his locked car at Kahler Inn Towne Motel in the Town of Grand Chute late Wednesday or early today.

Remodeling for Police Station Given Approval

Present Building Should be Vacated By March 1 Deadline

Remodeling of the former Automotive Building at 300 N. Appleton Street as a temporary headquarters for the Appleton Police Department was approved Wednesday night by the city council.

The action will assure that the present police station at the southwest corner of Washington and Morrison streets will be vacated by the March 15 deadline suggested by the developer of the new Gimbels Department Store.

Theodore Utschig and Son, Inc., will begin minor renovations of the interior of the two-story building this week. Work will cost $2,400.

The council also decided that part of the $89,000 proceeds from the sale of the police station to the developers be used to offset the $80,000 price being paid for the temporary headquarters building.

Another $7,000 to $8,000 will be spent by the city to convert the heating plant at the Appleton Street structure.

Aldermen made it a matter of record that the cost of getting the building ready for police, including the purchase prize, will not exceed $95,000.

They also decreed that any money taken from the contingency fund be replaced from the contemplated sale of the city home property.

The city has about 10 bidders for the home, which occupies a two-acre tract on Spencer Street.

It will be sold to the highest bidder.

Board Faces Controversial Speaker Rule

NEENAH — Exposure of students to controversial issues has become a primary concern of schools in the Neenah Joint School District.

School board members will soon have to determine the difference between a speaker bringing students up to date on hot issues of the day and a speaker attempting to incite students with radical thoughts.

Opinion by board members is likely to be divided.

The matter came up at Tuesday night's board meeting, when a board member, Carl Schleck questioned the district's policy on bringing in speakers.

Chicago Ghetto Speaker

His question came about two weeks after a visit to the high school by a Negro from the Chicago ghetto, Greg Munson. Munson had been asked to talk to students by a Neenah high school student, Philip Ristow.

Newer Winnebago Airport Plan Urged Word From HUD Awaited By Menasha

OSHKOSH — The aviation committee will be urged to slides on the operation of the recommend a comprehensive Madison and Green Bay airport airport study when it meets terminal buildings and charted Thursday, Feb. 27 to go over the sources of revenues which revised plans for a proposed enable both terminals to operate in the black," Rowe added. A working model of the proposed airport terminal for Wittman Field is being constructed but Rowe said he did not think it would be ready for the Feb. 27 meeting.

Previous Plan

The 12-year plan developed by Howard Needles Tammen and Bergendoff in 1963, was a 76-page engineering analysis providing two alternate plans for expanding the airport in three 4-year stages. It predicted that jet aircraft, such as the DC-9, would be using the airport by 1972, proposed runways of 6,500 feet to accommodate the aircraft. The fact that 1963 predictions based on the study have already advanced three to five years was revealed last November when Fritz Wolf, administrator of the state Division of Aeronautics, proposed a new study and a 10-year plan before any further airport construction is made.

Another major item of concern while preparing the plans for a new terminal building is to make the terminal self-supporting.

Crawford said today that the preview meeting dealt with a review of the 1963 master plan developed by the Milwaukee architectural firm and, according to his view, there was much work remaining to be done on it. "At this time I prefer to make no comment," he stated.

"What we did Wednesday was to give a preview of the proposed terminal, with the minor modifications ordered by the aviation committee on Jan. 30," commented Drake Rowe, architect for the firm, who is developing plans for the 100,000-square-foot terminal which now bears an estimated cost figure of $2.1 million.

Assembly Passes Anti-Secrecy Bill

MADISON — The Assembly closed Wednesday to close a loophole in the state's anti-secrecy law by passing a bill which would require school boards to hold open meetings except when discussing personnel matters.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

The loophole permits school boards to hold closed committee concentrate on efforts on BR-3 of the whole sessions. Assembly because of its soil-like character, Speaker Harold Froehlich, Ap- teristics and water holding pletion, was one of the authors capacity," he explained of the bill.

Court cases since 1955 have broadened compensation rights even further and have conse- quently created a thin line between what is an industry- caused injury and what is not. ## Neenah School Vote Approved

NEENAH — The fiscal control board of the Neenah Joint School District Wednesday night voted unanimously to put the question of bonding for a new $4.5 million high school to a referendum vote.

The fiscal board also voted unanimously in favor of bonding $200,000 for property acquisition.

A group led by Robert Wis- elementary School.

Petitions calling for the high school referendum were filed a week ago. The 1,962 signatures were certified by City Clerk R. A. Hauser. Only 1,085 were needed to force the referendum

Door-to-Door Effort Sunday Climaxes Drive

Young people from three Appleton organizations will be swelling the ranks of Heart Fund volunteers this week-end during the annual Heart Sunday residential solicitation.

Lending a hand to the fund appeal of the Wisconsin Heart Association are members of the Xavier Key Club, Appleton East Key Club and Girl Scout Cadet Troop No. 341, according to Mrs. Robert Swan, headquarters supervisor for the Appleton Heart Fund.

Mrs. Swan conferred with each of the clubs during the past few days, in order to arrange for their cooperation in the drive, which climaxes the 1969 Heart appeal.

School Site Favored For Housing Project

committee in charge of reviewing possible sites for the high-rise building, which could range from eight to 12 stories high, had informal contact with board of education officials.

Morgan School covers a large city block within four blocks of downtown College Avenue, and is bounded by Harris, Oneida, Morrison and North streets.

Comprehensive Plan

The location — while ideal in terms of meeting criteria of HUD that would have residents of the housing development near downtown shopping, churches, bus routes, medical facilities and other services — does not conform with the central business development projection contained in the city's comprehensive plan.

Because of the Fox River geography, intermediate and long-range plans call for the commercial district to gradually expand to the north of College Avenue into the area where Morgan School is located.

City Planner Jack Hetu said he was aware the Morgan School location was being considered but that the decision had apparently been made before representatives of the housing authority contacted him.

Other Areas

There are other areas to the east and west of the Morgan School block, and also immediately northwest of College Avenue, shown on the comprehensive plan as ideal locations for high rise apartment developments.

A reliable source said the housing authority is "quite solid" on its recommendation with regard to site selection.

At the same time, it was explained, acquisition of the school property would represent the easiest route for the authority to put together required $8,171,900 two-year home budget housing program, elderly persons with fixed incomes would pay lower than average rent.

Some of the areas marked for apartment development would an appeal Tuesday to the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee to come up seeking reinstatement of the funds.

It is believed the housing authority has tentatively decided on a turnkey type project, in which a developer would put up the building and then sell it to the housing authority. The authority would pay for the building with federal money acquired through a long-term, low-interest government loan grant.

Architects' Plans

Several architectural firms and developers have indicated interest in the proposed Appleton project, and all who inquired or were notified have presented proposals to the housing authority in a long-running series of interviews.

Originally, the housing authority applied for a 300-living unit project, but was told by regional HUD officials in Chicago that it appeared 200 units would represent a good starter.

Milwaukee, Madison and La Crosse are frontrunners in the state when it comes to providing low rental housing for the elderly. La Crosse, about the size of Appleton, has three different developments in operation.

The largest housing-for-the-elderly construction project now underway in the Fox Valley is at Fond du Lac where a multi-million dollar, 10-story high rise is nearing completion two blocks from downtown.

King Army Home To Appeal Budget Cut of $1.1 Million

KING — John Moses, secretary of the state Department of Veterans Affairs, met Tuesday with Grand Army Home officials to discuss ways to regain the $1.1 million siphoned from the Veterans Affairs budget by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Moses said Walter Rose, acting chairman of the Board of Veterans Affairs, will present a bill Tuesday to the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee to come up seeking reinstatement of the funds.

Almost all of the funds cut were for increases in medical and nursing care," Moses said.

The only time a cost is involved when it becomes necessary to transport the patient elsewhere.

Ald. John Ayers (12th), public safety committee chairman, has contended the rescue squad should not be in competition with private business when it comes to rate charges.

New Standards

While not announced at the meeting, state and federal regulations concerning ambulances and their personnel will become effective Jan. 1, 1970 and will affect all the firms in this area.

Kuehn says the rescue squad will not meet requirements because it is not large enough to carry four patients, plus emergency first-aid equipment.

It is also believed that none of the ambulance services in the Fox Valley presently meets the new requirements and will have to upgrade equipment and personnel training standards in 1970.

Kuehn feels the city should be in the ambulance business and purchase a new vehicle for an estimated $10,000, taking advantage of an estimated $800,000 in federal funds to be allocated to this part of the state.

Private ambulance services can also qualify for federal assistance under the new law, it was explained.

It was learned that a special meeting of those providing emergency services will be held at St. Elizabeth Hospital the first week in March to discuss emergency service upgrading.

Avoid Short-Changing On Medical Expenses

BY SYLVIA PORTER
(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)
If you are among the millions who itemize your deductions, you may be overlooking a proper medical expense deduction. The Treasury itself pointed this out after checking the 1967 returns. To avoid short-changing yourself, read on:
You can take an itemized medical deduction only for medical expenses which exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income (figure on page 1, line 9 of Form 1040). But the tax law was changed starting with '67 so you can take a separate itemized deduction for half your accident and health insurance premiums up to a $150 deduction, whether or not your total medical expenses are high enough to give you a regular medical expense deduction. The half of your premiums which isn't deductible under this special deduction is added to your regular medical expenses. Say you and your wife each carry accident and health insurance on which each of you pays premiums of $300 or more. Can you each deduct $150 for premiums, for a total of $300? The Treasury last year said, "yes," but only if you and your wife file separate returns. Since most of us file joint returns, this restricts the special deduction to $150, with the balance included in other regular medical expenses subject and failed that your auto expenses for making the trip would then be deductible as medical transportation expenses.

Decision Not Final
But can you deduct meals and lodging during the three or four-day trip? The Treasury said no, the Tax Court said yes. While the law bars a deduction for the cost of meals and lodging at the place you get your medical care (except on a hospital bill), it doesn't bar a deduction for the cost of meals and lodgings while in transit to that place. And if the sick person is taken there and back, the meal and lodging costs of the escort (Mrs. husband or wife) while en route are also part of the medical expenses for the full round trip. Re-member though, the Treasury hasn't agreed with this decision and you may face litigation if you claim the deduction.
If you have a disturbed child in private tuition, here are the rules on tuition as a medical expense. If the school is a "special" school, the full tuition is deductible as a medical expense. But a school isn't special in this sense, agreed the Tax Court last year, unless education there is merely incidental to medical care. If a Fink, Mrs. Matilda Borland, law says you cannot deduct the school can't meet this definition. The parent nevertheless can where you get your medical care, except if you pay them as a portion of the tuition which is part of a hospital bill. Thus, if you go to Florida or Arizona for health purposes, you can't deduct your meals and lodgings (except in a hospital).
But say you live in New York and drive your car to Florida for acceptable health purposes. The court found that the McKenzie and four juveniles (far away. The three or four-day school wasn't "special" because were shooting at pheasants trip requires you to spend money for meals and lodgings to medical care. But it then said rifle, about a mile west of en route. There is no question that since this school charged Appleton on Jan 22 to take this new deduction, you can ask for a '67 tax refund based on the extra deduction by using simplified Form 1040X (to be explained in column 8 This should help bring you a fast, easy refund.

If you had to take a long trip to reach a hospital or area for medical care, a new court case may help you claim a larger medical expense deduction. The law says you cannot deduct the cost of meals and lodgings where you get your medical care, except if you pay them as a portion of the tuition which is part of a hospital bill. Thus, if you go to Florida or Arizona for health purposes, you can't deduct your meals and lodgings (except in a hospital).

Youth Forfeits Bond For Hunting Violation

Jonathon E. McKenzie, 18, 805 N Rankin St. forfeited a $42 bond in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday on a charge of carrying a loaded, uncased gun in a vehicle. A conservation warden said the McKenzie and four juveniles were shooting at pheasants from a car, with a .22 caliber rifle, about a mile west of Appleton on Jan 22.

After Pueblo Capture Reserve Planes Called Obsolete

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy Reserve fighter and bomber squadrons called to active duty after the Pueblo capture last year were unfit for deployment because their planes were obsolete, an admiral said today.

Rear Adm. Frederick H. Michaelis said heavy battle losses in Vietnam had forced the regular Navy to pull combat-worthy planes from the reserve. In return, he said, reserve units got outmoded training aircraft.

His statements amounted to the first official acknowledgment that the six Navy Reserve fighter and attack squadrons were in such shape when they were mobilized Jan. 26, 1968.

Michaelis, assistant deputy chief of naval operations for air, disclosed the situation in a speech prepared for a Reserve Officers Association luncheon.

Major Program

He said the Navy is undertaking a major program to modernize reserve units with such planes as the F4 Phantom and to provide better training and support for the Naval Air Reserve.

The six squadrons were released from active duty in October.

"Our units were recalled without deployable equipment," Michaelis said. "Therefore, they were not in a position to be immediately responsive. They could not be deployed aboard ship without a change of aircraft and much training."

The training planes "were not only outmoded for deployment aboard carriers but obsolete to such an extent that realistic training in weapons delivery, fire control systems and electronic warfare was impossible," Michaelis said.

The two-star admiral said it became necessary, after squad-

Dayan Gives Warning to Arab Nations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel's hawks today held in abeyance their demands for retaliation for the latest Arab attack on an Israeli airliner. They awaited the outcome of calls from their government and that of the United States for international action to protect civil aviation.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, one of the more militant members of the Israeli cabinet, told a closed meeting at the Weizman Institute of Science Wednesday night that Israelis must be restrained and let the diplomats fight their battles for the moment. But reliable sources said he warned Israel's Arab neighbors.

"We regard all our neighboring states as responsible for all terrorist activities. When we make reprisals, we will hit them in the place that will hurt them the most and will be the most convenient for us. We will not be bound to any particular target."

Dayan had just come from a top-secret ministerial security meeting at the home of Premier Levi Eshkol.

Certain of Reprisal

"We'll let the Arabs stew for a while," said one lead Israeli commentator. "All their governments are certain of a big Israeli reprisal, are scurrying around frantically to accuse each other of complicity and thus escape the consequences themselves."

Lebanon denied any part in the Arab commando attack.

Iraq executed seven young men as spies for Israel today, and the bodies were later put on display in Baghdad's Liberation Square.

Israel is expected to issue a denial of any spying complicity but it appears unlikely that there will be a repitition of foreign protests to the extent of those that followed the public execution last month of nine Iraqi Jews and five Moslems as spies for Israel.

Supports Gradual Process Inflation Can be Curbed Without Unemployment Hike, Shultz Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz today there is "substantial evidence" that inflation can be curbed without marked increase in unemployment.

Shultz told the joint House-Senate Economic Committee that foremost among the factors supporting this belief is the administration's aim to work gradually—not abruptly—to reduce inflation.

"Our aim is not to achieve a zero price rise this year," he said in prepared testimony. "This could not occur short of a sizeable recession."

Shultz said the other two factors are a growing proportion of workers now employed in industries not affected by seasonal or other periodic layoffs and an increasing variety of manpower programs.

The labor secretary added, however, that there is a need for focusing manpower programs on Negro youth which he said have the most serious employment problems over the past decade.

Shultz was the first high ad-

Enemy Is Stronger Near Saigon Than During Tet Offense

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military advisers said today the Viet Cong have more forces now for an attack on Saigon and the provinces around it than they had for the big Tet offensive a year ago.

The American officers conceded they were uncertain when, where or if the Communist command would launch its long anticipated big push. But they said captured documents and prisoners of war still point to an offensive in the 3rd Corps Area, which is made up of Saigon and 11 provinces around it.

Assessing the current military situation around the capital, the analysts said either the enemy has not been able to get his troops, munitions and food supplies into position because of U.S. and South Vietnamese spoiling actions, or he is awaiting advice from Hanoi's diplomats at the Paris peace talks.

3rd Corps Area

Captured documents and word from prisoners of war still point to an offensive in the 3rd Corps Area, made up of Saigon and 11 provinces around it, the experts said.

"The enemy's over-all strength in 3rd Corps has increased about 7,500 over the last 13 months to 65,000," said one source. About 20,000 to 30,000 of these are considered assault troops, the rest support forces. The total includes several thousand operating from bases just across the border in Cambodia who move in and out of South Vietnam at will and are within easy striking distance of Saigon.

The allies have roughly 50,000 combat infantrymen in the area.

Because of last year's Tet offensive, many observers anticipated some kind of spectacular Viet Cong move during the lunar new year holidays this week. But the analysts said there hasn't been any great increase in enemy activity in the past week. Now U.S. officers are saying that from now until the end of February is a critical period.

At least one of four North Vietnamese divisions in the 3rd Corps Area is said to be moving into attack positions through War Zone D northeast of Saigon. Three other divisions remain about where they were a month ago, along the Cambodian border west, northwest and north of Saigon.

Outlying Zones

One analyst said this disposition of enemy forces suggests assaults on outlying areas rather than on Saigon itself, at least in the initial phases of any offensive. The most likely initial targets appear to be Tay Ninh City, northwest of Saigon, and the big American bases at Long Binh, Bien Hoa and Lai Khe, north and northeast of the capital.

American B52 bombers have stepped up their attacks on enemy base areas and troop concentrations which pose a threat to these bases, hitting them in the 24 hours before noon today with 1,260 tons of bombs.

would not be proper for me to make any other recommendation as secretary of defense."

Laird said earlier the nonproliferation treaty would not affect U.S. ability to meet its mutual-security obligations.

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for the first time in his new role, the former Wisconsin congressman said: "Every effort should be made to bring this treaty into force promptly. We should now move promptly to ratify it. Our action will encourage other nations to do the same."

The defense secretary said the United States has assured its NATO allies the treaty would not interfere with existing mutual-security arrangements nor prevent NATO consultation on nuclear matters.

And, he continued, the treaty would not prohibit possible progress toward a united European defense.

This was an apparent reference to the arrangement under which a nuclear power can place weapons on the territory of an ally, provided ownership and control remain with the nuclear country.

Ice Islands Hold Key To Northwest Passage

sprayed off Prudhoe Bay are unknown but they apparently have been floating about the Arctic quite some time in that they are only 115 feet thick and their sides measure only 200 to 300 feet. About 25 feet of ice protrudes above the water line.

Haas and Peyton want to "capture" the islands by increasing their weight so sharply they will remain grounded winter and summer despite wind changes and mean temperatures that vary from 40 below zero to 40 above.

"I don't know of anyone who has ever captured an ice island before," Peyton said.

The United States, Russia and Canada, however, have been placing observation camps on some of the floating islands since the 1940s.

Four cargo planes arrived in the Prudhoe Bay area last Monday and the equipment they carried was transferred to the islands by helicopter. The spraying began on Tuesday.

Peyton's logistics plan calls for the spray to add six inches of new ice a day to each island. Spraying is to continue until the thickness of each is increased a minimum of 20 feet.

Once the spraying is completed, the crew will become observers and record environmental data, a vital component of the study.

"We think we may have a mooring structure right there if we can preserve the islands," Haas said. "We are going to let nature help us and if we can keep them through the winter it

Stretching, bending, leaping to the rhythm of mind and music, these students represent just a fraction of the hundreds of boys and girls who have participated in the Appleton Recreation Department dance classes over the years.

From 4 to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, Mrs. Marie Mortell and assistants conduct three consecutive 45-minute classes in acrobatics, tap and modern jazz dancing for boys and girls as young as six years old.

Mrs. Mortell and Mrs. Donald Streck, veteran assistant, have guided youngsters for more than 20 years, often following the progress of individuals from their first uncertain steps in kindergarten to their skilled performances as teen-agers.

All part of the Recreation Department's winter activities, the classes are offered in 24-lesson packages from September to April, with registration in August.

As Diamond Prices Soar Couples Buy Cut-Rate Stones

The soaring cost of diamonds cause both the wholesaler and the De Beers monopoly would lower the prices," Winston said. "Impossible. A lot of the big money in the diamond business is made on diamonds after De Beers sells them to the cutters and wholesalers like me — by the jobbers; by the jewelry manufacturers, who aren't mounting those stones for nothing; by the retailers, who sometimes get an enormous markup," he said.

"There's also a lot of shenanigans between the dealers and the appraisers," he added. "They all know each other."

The magazine warned women not to let inflated value confuse them when insuring their diamonds. "Ask an appraiser sometime, after he has set a value on your ring, if he will buy it from you at that figure! Or just try to sell it to somebody else at anything like that figure."

The growing popularity of diamonds around the world, coupled with the scarcity of good gems, has driven their price to "preposterous" heights, diamond merchants reported.

Jump 25 Per Cent

"Frankly, the cost of diamonds today frightens me," one of New York's largest dealers said. "In the last nine months, this business of ours has gone completely crazy. The prices have just gone up another 25 per cent, and there's a tremendous demand for diamonds all over the world."

While many dealers blamed the De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd., which mines most of the gem diamonds in the world, for keeping prices high, others claimed it is simply demand exceeding supply.

Harry Winston, one of the world's largest dealers in diamonds, attributed the current boom in diamond prices to the newly rich in western Europe and the Far East who are buying gems as protection against inflation.

"Don't tell me that a breakup

The average engagement ring sold at retail today has a diamond of medium quality weighing nearly two thirds of a carat and costing around $450 per carat; that is regarded as a rather low-priced ring, with little resale value.

"Prohibitive prices on sought-after one-carat or larger diamonds in reputable jewelry shops and department stores drive young couples into cut-rate bargain stores, where they buy engagement rings the expert diamond dealers in New York regard as junk," the magazine reported.

Women who regard their diamonds as a negotiable investment amid a soaring market should not be misled by retail prices, merchants cautioned.

Difficult to Sell

Although a diamond bought for $6,800 in 1959 may be worth $15,000 on the retail market today, "it would be difficult for a private owner to sell it at anything like that price," be-

Three Appleton women recently went back to school in an unusual program designed to help them their customers. The women, all business service counselors from the Wisconsin Telephone Company, attended a three day "Data on the Move" course in Milwaukee.

Appleton participants were Mrs. Loretta Barber, 113 W. Parkway Blvd.; Miss Genevieve Mortell, 404 W. Prospect Ave., and Mrs. Stella Minsart, 1836 S. Van Dyke Road. Mrs. Barber works in Appleton, and the other two in the Neenah-Menasha offices of the phone company.

Service counselors help business people to make the best use of their telephones and data communications equipment.

"Data on the Move" is appropriately named the course is given in a pair of 50-foot-long trailers which are criss-crossing the country. One of the big blue and white trailers has been made into a classroom complete with blackboard and movie projector and the other is a working laboratory stocked with $85,000 worth of data communications equipment.

Each participant learns about the latest Bell System data transmission and how to get information to and from a computer. The students work with some of the most up-to-date business machines available. Their teachers are business service counselors from various Bell companies who have been specially trained by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., owner of "Data on the Move."

Your Problems

His Drug Facts Still Aren't Accurate

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a pre-med student who would like to straighten you out. I refer to your answer to the distraught college kid who wrote to you, all uptight about taking LSD because he had heard it might cause his unborn children to be deformed.

Since you reached for Nobel Prize winner Dr. Joshua Lederberg to help you answer, one would think you got the straight goods between the two of you, you goofed.

A simple, inexpensive chromosome test can be performed by blood sample in the genetic counseling department of any large hospital, preferably a teaching-medical center. A gross test, one which will reveal any breakage or mutants, can be done almost anywhere a high-powered microscope is available. Tell it like it is, Ann. — Pre-Med Student.

Dear Pre-Med: I turned your letter over to Dr. John P. Merrill, Associate Professor of Harvard Medical School. He replied: "The pre-med student is wrong. The chromosome test requires something more than a high-powered microscope. The cells taken from a blood sample must be grown in culture, usually stimulated to divide, so one can see the chromosomes break up. Under these circumstances one might be able to tell something about the effects of LSD. There are, of course, other drugs which could produce this effect but in any case, something more is required than simply looking at cells under a microscope."

I'll pass on your apologies to Dr. Lederberg, Son.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since almost everyone reads your column, I know of no better way

To take the treatment, simply place a bath mat, long-handled body brush, and saucer of salt alongside your bathtub. Next time take a long, hot, sudsy soak. At the finish let the water drain.

Then hop out and stand on the mat and, while still dripping, lather up your brush, dip it into the salt, and light-massage every inch of skin from shin to toes. Avoid only serious blemishes. Although the United States has supplanted Egypt as the county with the world's highest divorce rate, Dr. David R. Mace, executive director of the American Association of Marriage Counselors, believes that Americans are really unusually marriage-minded.

"Americans believe deeply in marriage," said Dr. Mace in an intimately shared life — that physicians' publication, "Medical Aspects of Human Sexuality." "More than 90 per cent of all Americans marry at least once in a lifetime, and surely that means something."

If a first marriage fails, Dr. Mace pointed out, six out of every seven divorced people try again. A few generations ago, only one out of three divorced people remarried.

It's just because Americans expect so much from marriage; personal happiness and an

Daniel Moe to Lead Choral Festival

Daniel Moe, professor of music at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, will direct the Appleton public high school choral festival at 8 p.m. Saturday at Appleton High School-East.

Open to the public, the performance will be the final program of the three-part festival which annually brings nationally known adjudicators and band, orchestra and choral students together.

Guest conductor and choral clinician for high school and college choral festivals throughout the nation, Prof. Moe received his B. A. degree from Concordia College; his M. A. degree from the University of Washington, Seattle, and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Iowa.

Prof. Moe also has studied at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn.; Kirchenmusikschule, Hannover, Germany, and Aspen School of Music. He was director of choral music from 1953 to 1959 at the University of Denver and associate professor and choral director from 1961 to 1968 at the University of Iowa.

More than 25 vocal works of his composition have been published. Among them is "The Coventry Nativity," performed by the Denver Symphony Orchestra with Prof. Moe as guest conductor. His latest work, "One People, One God," a cantata for double chorus and orchestra, was premiered in 1964 in Columbus, Ohio. Another work, "A Contemporary Liturgy," is being widely used by high school and college students as an experimental study in worship.

Prof. Moe is a member of Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity, American Choral Directors Association and Music Educators National Conference; Iowa Music Educators Association.

Appleton Public High School students rehearse under the direction of Miss Frances Bubolz for the choral festival to be presented to the public at 8 p.m. Saturday at Appleton High School-East.

The Ailing House Take Paint Off Screen Easy Way

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: A can of paint accidentally dropped and left quite a few spots on a screen door. I tried turpentine and a rag to get it off but it didn't work. What can I try next? — Newark.

A: Treat with a cloth well dampened with liquid paint remover, or use the paste type. Be careful not to let this stray, because it could cause removals where you don't want them. If you use the liquid type wear rubber gloves to protect your hands.

Q: We made a former garage into a cottage. The concrete floor was always damp and I wonder if covering with asphalt tile would cure the problem. — Appleton, Wis.

A: It is possible, but you'd better take a couple of extra steps, instead of just putting the tiles on the concrete. First cover with a layer of heavy builder's clear plastic sheeting as a vapor barrier; then an underlayment of exterior grade plywood paneling. Over this, the asphalt tiles should do fine.

Q: Although I wiped it up quickly, some spilled black coffee left a stain on my walnut table. Apparently the coffee stained through the finish and the wiping also left a lighter-colored area. What will correct this? — San Francisco.

A: Experiment on a small spot with one of the coffee stain removing preparations (usually available in supermarkets, hardware stores) and refinish, or keep a book or something over the spot.

Q: After stripping all the old, heavy finish from a chair I found in my mother's attic. I would like to refinish it. What do you think of a prime coat of fresh, white shellac, then two or three coats spar varnish? York, Pa.

A: One of the very best methods. Allow ample drying time between coats.

from the dummy. The fate of the contract depends on East's play at the first trick.

If East follows the old rule, he puts up the jack of diamonds. "Third hand high" is another way of saying "Never finesse against your partner." Both sayings would lead East astray in this case.

South captures the jack of diamonds with the queen and loses a trump finesse to East's king. East returns a club, enabling west to take two club tricks. Then South ruffs the third round of clubs, draws trumps and leads a diamond to take a finesse with dummy's ten. This finesse works, and South takes the rest of the tricks, making his contract.

Deep Finesse
East defeats the contract if he plays the eight of diamonds at the first trick, taking a deep finesse. This play enables South to win a cheap trick with the nine of diamonds, but does not give him all three diamond tricks.

South loses a spade finesse at the second trick, and the defenders make the normal switch to clubs, taking two club tricks. West gets out safely with a third club, and South ruffs. South must eventually lose a diamond trick to the king or to the jack, and this is the setting trick.

Beware of playing the jack in third position when dummy shows the ace-ten or even the ace-nine. It is usually better to play some such card as the seven or eight or even to play low altogether.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S—Q J 10 9 8 H—Q 10 6 D—Q 9 5 C—K J. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You have 11 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, but the hand isn't even close to an opening bid. You need at least two of the eight aces and kings for a sound opening bid.

Milk Price Supports

For Dairy Farmers

SHAWANO — Hyde Murray, 7th district Republican candidate for Congress today urged Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin to boost the price support of milk for manufacturing by 28 cents per hundred weight.

Speaking at a noon luncheon here, Murray said the increase is fully justified and should be granted to permit farmers to better keep up with rising production and living costs.

Murray, who served as a committee counsel to the House Agriculture Committee for the past 11 years pointed out that his proposed increase from $4.28 to $4.56 per hundred-weight would only maintain the support price at the same level of parity as that which prevailed last year.

Blood Spots in Eggs Do Not Mean Fertilization

By George C. Thosteson, M.D. about two inches by two inches. It seemed like such an innocuous little paragraph that I printed it. Mrs. A. C. said she and her husband were in dispute over whether it is harmful to eat an egg that has a blood spot in the yolk. I said it was not harmful which is correct, but I stubbed my academic toe by adding gratuitously, that such

Dr. Thosteson

Blood spots denote a fertilized egg. And that was not true. You wouldn't believe the storm of protest I have by now. I don't count the letters from poultrymen not to mention faculty members of Michigan State University, University of Guelph and others. Dr. L. A. Wilhelm, president of the Poultry and Eggs National Board, was kind enough to comment that it's impossible for any one person to have the correct answers on everything. A sentiment in which I gratefully concur.

Of the approximately 265 million hens producing table eggs in the United States, he tells me, less than one-tenth of one percent are mated to roosters. Canadian hens I am told, also are largely celibate. Mightily few fertile eggs reach the stores because among other things, fertilized eggs are in demand for purposes other than eating — hatching more chickens, for one. And there was quite a rush last fall to find enough fertilized eggs because they were needed to raise virus for the new Hong Kong flu vaccine.

Anyway, I quote Dr. Wilhelm and others: about 2 percent of non-fertilized eggs contain blood spots, the result of a minor error committed by the hen — sometimes a small blood vessel emits a tiny, or sometimes larger, smear of blood when the egg is being formed. Such eggs are detected by candling, or more often, today, by an electronic eye developed, Dr. Wilhelm says, by Dr. Wade Brant, now of the University of California but then with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

A woman in New Mexico who raises and eats fertilized eggs says, "Most egg farms don't even have a rooster on the place."

She adds an interesting quotation from a text book she consulted at New Mexico State University. "The blood clots appear to be due to a rupture of a blood vessel in the ovary or oviduct. Do not market eggs with blood clots, although they are wholesome. Consumers object to the appearance."

She continues, "When we sold our eggs, and candled them, we ate the bloody ones and sold the others." To all the poultrymen I apologize. And to the 265 million hens in the U.S. and their sisters in Canada.

And whether they forgive me or not, I shall continue to eat my 365 eggs a year, with or without blood specks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am scheduled to have a sebaceous cyst removed from the top of my head but am tempted to Skenandore 27, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. My mother died a year after having a growth removed. They tell me mine is not malignant, however.

I guess what I am asking is should I leave it alone as long as it doesn't bother me, or is it unwise to neglect it? The cyst is FF and State 76.

A cyst of that size is a nuisance especially so far as appearance goes. There is no problem in removing such cysts, and they are not malignant. However, they can become infected and then you have a real problem. I would suggest removal.

Note to Mrs. R.N.Y.: No cure for multiple sclerosis has yet been found but yes, there is continuous study going on in many places seeking all possible information bearing on this difficult disease.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How To Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 30 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Oshkosh Town-Gown Offers Bonus Program

Exciting Flamenco Dancer Ciro and His Ballet Troupe Onstage in Oshkosh Sunday

BY JNGO

Over the last decade, the Oshkosh Town and Gown series has presented many top-rate attractions, some of which were programs by world-renowned concert impresario Sol Hurok under his "S Hurok Presents" banner. Among the Hurok programs were Marian Anderson, Van Cylburn, Isaac Stern, Stockholm Philharmonic, Royal Winnipeg Ballet and, later this season, the Moscow Symphony.

Due to these well-attended Hurok events at Oshkosh, the impresario, "in a moment of generosity," offered Ciro and his Ballet Flamenco to Town and Gown for "an extremely low fee," according to director Robert E. Brismaster. It appears that Ciro has a Milwaukee concert this weekend and is open Sunday night. So, Brismaster accepted Hurok's offer and Ciro and his company will dance Sunday night at the Oshkosh Civic Auditorium.

The 8:15 p.m. concert is being arranged and carried out by Town and Gown, but it is not part of the regular season. Thus, tickets are being sold on a first come, first served basis. Price is $1.50 and seating is unreserved. Tickets are available at Mueller-Potter Rexall Drug's Main Street store, Reeve Memorial Union and by mail to Town and Gown, 800 Algoma Blvd., Oshkosh. It probably is unwise to take a chance on the mail service at such a late date.

Jungo is impressed by the low price, which is a full dollar under the bottom price of chair seats along the walls for regular events.

Ciro in 'Farruca'

Dances ranging from the classic flamenco to the gay and boisterous fandango and rumbas of the Spanish countryside will be in Ciro's agenda. Ciro himself will perform the "Farruca," one of the most technically difficult of all flamenco dances and "Soleares," often called the "mother" dance of this gypsy art form.

One of the featured performers will be Rosa Montoya, leading soloist of the female contingent. With Ciro, she will dance the "Zorongo Gitano," based on a poem of Federico Garcia Lorca, set to a flamenco chant, and "Leyenda," a modern dance to the music of Isaac Albeniz, depicting man's eternal struggle with life. Miss Montoya also will dance on "Alegrias."

Ciro and three of his female dancers perform a number from the concert which is touring the nation under the auspices of "S. Hurok Presents." The program will be a bonus attraction of the Town and Gown series at Oshkosh Sunday night.

Rocky Jiroch Wins AP's Prep Award

Associated Press Sports Writer Rocky Jiroch and his Manitowoc Shipbuilders are a stumbling block for anyone with designs on the Fox Valley Conference basketball championship. Just ask Neenah—or Green Bay East—or Green Bay West.

Neenah, already sure of at least a share of the title, was the latest to feel the wrath of Jiroch and his teammates. And, after another stellar performance, Jiroch was named The Associated Press Player of the Week by the state's sports writers and broadcasters.

Jiroch pumped in 31 points as the Ships upset Neenah, then in the first place in the FVC race.

Before that, Manitowoc had knocked Green Bay East out of first place, then repeated the performance against Green Bay West.

In the East game, Jiroch scored 27 points, including 16 in the final period. Then, he scored 18 points against West with 15 coming in the second half.

The chance to become the winningest Lawrence basketball team in the last 15 years will be one of the forces motivating the Vikings into Midwest Conference action at Ripon Friday night.

The contest against the Redmen begins Lawrence's final road trip of the season. Coach John Poulson's charges will then have only games at Cornell and Grinnell the following weekend to finish out the season's schedule.

While the Vikes will be out to make a move into the first division, front-running St. Olaf looks to wrap up the undisputed MC crown for 1968-69 in a home tilt against Monmouth. The Oles guaranteed themselves at least a share of the league championship last Saturday night with a 66-55 win over Beloit.

Not since the 1953-54 campaign has a Lawrence team won as many as 10 games in a season, but the current LU edition already has nine victories tucked away as opposed to eight setbacks.

8-7 League Record

A triumph over Ripon could also do the Vikes a world of good in the MC race. Lawrence, which will be striving to extend a 5-game winning streak, owns an 8-7 league record, good enough for sixth place. Just ahead of LU is Knox with a 7-6 mark, and the Swashers are headed for a rough weekend on the road against second-place Carleton and champion St. Olaf on successive nights.

All five of the Vikes' wins in the current streak were snared at home. Lawrence has not fared well on the road this season, winning just one game and losing five, so it's reasonable that Poulson & Co. enter Friday's contest with some apprehension.

"We'll have a lot of respect for them playing them on their floor," Poulson said of the Redmen Wednesday. Lawrence notched an 87-71 win over their long-time rivals earlier, a game in which Ripon "didn't play their best."

"I'm looking for a real tough battle," the first-year mentor

Key Region 4 Tilt

Chuters Meet Cadets Tonight, Seek to Reverse Two Losses

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Tournament time is do-or-die for enterprising basketball teams, and Little Chute St. John tonight must do what it hasn't been able to twice before this season — beat Green Bay Premontre—or die in its bid to advance to the WISAA State Tournament.

The Dutchmen-Cadet clash will be the second game in the semi-final round of the Region 4 tournament at the Brown County Arena. Game time should be approximately 8:30 p.m. In the first contest beginning at 7 p.m., Marinette Catholic Central takes on De Pere Abbot Penning.

The winners move on to the finals against each other at the same site Saturday night.

Premontre toppled St. John twice during the Fox Valley Catholic Conference season by scores of 65-60 at Green Bay and 80-69 at Little Chute. Each time, the Chuters blew a lead in the last quarter.

"Too Many Mistakes"

"There's no question in my mind that we can beat them," Ripp asserted Wednesday. "We could have beaten them twice, but we made too many mistakes."

Mistakes may have hurt the Dutchmen severely, but an even bigger problem was handling the Cadets 6-7 scoring ace, Tom Skaleski. The tall junior had 23 points in the first meeting with St. John, then came back to pour in 29 more the second time.

"He's good," Ripp observed, "they'll lob that pass to him along the restraining line. Then, he'll pivot. He gets to high, it's pretty hard to block the shot. He's strong, too. He gets plenty of rebounds."

If any one boy has the responsibility of halting Skaleski, the job may fall to Mike Verbruggen, the Chuters' tallest cager at 6-5.

Premontre (15-5) will present a much tougher attack on the boards than Sacred Heart did in losing to the Chuters Tuesday night. "It wasn't a real test," Ripp conceded, "we beat them on the boards and got a big lead. I don't think we scored enough, though."

Penning, a strong tournament team in recent years, pits a 16-4 record against the Cavaliers, now 7-14. The Marinette club lost to the Squires twice during the regular FVCC campaign.

Don La Violette's quintet is paced by versatile John Albers. Marty Crowe's cagers, who used their slowdown approach successfully against St. Nazianz JFK Tuesday night for a 40-32 triumph, are led by Pete Thyme. Thyme connected for 21 markers against the Royals.

Malone Paces Oshkosh to 82-70 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stevens Point poured in 11 points in the three minutes before halftime Wednesday night and rolled to an 80-67 basketball victory over Platteville.

The victory gave the Pointers a 12-2 record, one-half game behind leader Stout in the Wisconsin State University Conference.

Stout was idle Wednesday, but in other games Eau Claire defeated River Falls, 79-70; Oshkosh beat Whitewater, 82-70, and Superior dumped La Crosse, 94-82.

Tom Ritzenthaler scored 24 points and Russ De Fauw added 21 to pace the Pointers' attack.

Oshkosh blanked Whitewater for the first seven minutes of the second half to seal its victory. Mike Malone scored 25 points, including 13 of 13 from the free throw line, to lead all scorers.

Appleton Xavier and Menasha St. Mary, whose 1969 basketball tournament adventures got off on eminently successful notes Tuesday night, will be seeking more of the same — at each other's expense — Friday.

Neenah High School's cool-in-the-clutch Rockets play host to Green Bay East Friday in the hottest attraction of the Fox River Valley Conference's final 1968-9 night of action.

If the Rockets can come up with the same poise and point-making prowess they showed against another Green Bay School — West—last Saturday, they'll wrap up the outright FRVC title. Thus, of course, would represent a considerable accomplishment for a new member of a large (12 schools) conference. If GBE repeats an earlier win over Neenah, the league title will probably be split three ways.

While Neenah pursues its lofty objective, Appleton's two public high schools will also have more at stake Friday night than securing good warm-ups for next week's tournament play. For AHS-East, it's a first-division berth that's at stake, and for AHS-West, it's a 500 record.

Meet Fond du Lac

The Patriots play host to Fond du Lac, as they seek to avenge a 64-60 loss of last January. The Terrors travel to Sheboygan for a game against South, with hopes of duplicating last month's victory (59-52).

Baltimore Leads by 4 Games After Knicks, 76ers Suffer Losses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers won the war of words but the Baltimore Bullets took the battle of baskets.

The amazing Bullets survived a tongue-lashing from mountaintop Wilt Chamberlain Wednesday night and shot down the Lakers 110-88. That increased their lead in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division to four games over New York and 4½ over Philadelphia, both of which lost.

The Knicks dropped a 110-100 decision to Cincinnati while San Francisco blasted the 76ers 134-117. In the only other NBA game, Detroit downed Seattle 131-124.

Miami got by Kentucky 119-115. New Orleans tripped Houston 112-107 and Los Angeles nipped Dallas 116-114 in the ABA.

Chamberlain got his dander up when he thought a foul should have been called on Baltimore center Westley Unseld. He chewed Unseld out, but the big rookie never changed his expression and went on to out-rebound Wilt 22-21.

The Knicks, who had their 11-game winning streak snapped by Los Angeles Tuesday night, dropped two straight for the first time since Nov. 19-20. The 10-point setback was their biggest since Dec. 15. They had won 28 of 32 games before Tuesday and the four losses were by a total of nine points.

The Royals, who, like the Lakers, have taken four of five from the Knicks, raced to a 63-49 halftime lead. New York got within four points late in the game but Connie Dierking hit two clutch baskets.

27 For Frazier
Tom Van Arsdale scored 21 points and Oscar Robertson and Walt Wesley 19 apiece for the Royals. Walt Frazier paced the Knicks with 27.

San Francisco opened a 28-point lead over Philadelphia late in the first half and had no trouble with the 76ers. Jeff Mullins scored 28 points and Rudy LaRusso 24 to offset 32 by Philadelphia's Chet Walker.

Dave Bing scored 19 of his 30 points in the second half to spark the Pistons past Seattle. Happy Hairston helped out with 28 but Bob Rule of the Super-Sonics took game honors with 32.

French Named Northland's Head Coach

ASHLAND (AP) — Keith French, interim football coach at Northland College last fall, today was named head coach, replacing Raymond Nelson.

The appointment was made by Robert V. Cramer, Northland president.

Nelson, football coach at Northland since 1962, asked to be relieved of coaching duties because of increased responsibilities as chairman of the department of physical education. He has spent the past year at Utah State University completing work toward a doctorate.

Dr. Cramer said Nelson will return this fall as director of athletics and chairman of the physical education department.

French also is serving as acting director of athletics until Nelson's return. A graduate of La Crosse State, French led Northland to a 5-3 mark last fall, the first winning season since 1960 at the school and the Colgate 104 St. Lawrence 98.

He formerly coached at Goodman High, Weyauwega and Janesville Craig.

Baseball Boycott Shows Some Signs of Cracking

By MIKE RECH

NEW YORK (AP) — The major league players' boycott shows some signs of cracking, but not enough to keep their representatives from rejecting another pension offer from the club owners.

A number of name players, such as Pat Jarvis, Tom Seaver, Jerry Grote and George Scott, said Wednesday they would report to spring training. And owner Francis Dale of the Cincinnati Reds says that's just the beginning.

"The real test of the players hasn't come yet," Dale said in Cincinnati. "I can tell you there are a lot of players signed and a lot more ready to. We really haven't tested (Marvin) Miller's control of his men."

That brought a response from Miller, the executive director of the Major League Players Association.

"This proves it is all a stalling tactic to try to break the Association wide open," Miller said in New York.

Earlier in the day the player representatives had overwhelmingly turned down the latest proposal by the owners to hike the pension $1.2 million to $5.3 million.

By Big Margin
The players had rejected a previous $1 million increase by a big margin and Dick Moss, counsel for the Association, said player representatives did not think the new offer significant enough to submit to the membership.

The Association is asking a $6.5 million pension package. Moss also said a few players were expected to report to spring training, but reaffirmed the Association belief that the great majority of players, including the big stars, would not sign contracts or report until the dispute is settled.

But among those who were signed up today was Jarvis, Atlanta's top pitcher last season with a 16-12 record. Knuckleballer Phil Niekro, another Braves' starter, indicated he might report within the next few days.

However, Braves' slugger Hank Aaron stuck with the boycott.

"It's the principle of the thing," he said. "I can't sign until it is settled. These are the people I play with."

Seaver, an All-Star with the New York Mets last year, said he had not signed and would not report today at St. Petersburg, Fla., but added "I will play this season whether the dispute is settled or not."

"I believe baseball remains one of the few things that reward individual effort in our country and I want it to remain that way. I don't want it to become unionized. I will go so far. I have a date set in my mind (to report) and I'm the only one who knows it."

Scott, Boston's veteran infielder, was quoted in a copyrighted story in the Boston Traveler that he planned to report on schedule next Wednesday.

John Bateman and Ron Brandt, two former Houston catchers now with the expansion Montreal Expos, and teammate Bob Bailey, former Los Angeles infielder, reported Wednesday.

Ken Harrelson, Boston slugger who led the American League in runs batted in last season, earlier announced his intention to report, having signed a contract last summer. And veteran catcher Russ Nixon and veteran pitcher Dan Osinski reported earlier to the Chicago White Sox' camp at Sarasota, Fla.

Pacing Scorers
Heading into the final slate of games, Lawrence's Bob Townsend continues pacing all MC scorers. The Bensenville senior was held to nine points in his last outing against Grinnell, his lowest total of the season, but a 32-point spurge against Cornell the night before kept his average up at 20.7.

Beloit's Kit Jones is second with a 19.2 mark, 61 points behind Townsend. Coe's Ron Barnes follows with a 19.1 average.

LU's Mike Andrews and Brad Childs are also ranked in the top 20 in scoring. Andrews holds the 14th spot with a 14.5 average, and Childs is 16th with 14.3.

Childs set a Lawrence season rebound record last week when he pulled down 36 in the two games. His total now is 296, 30 more than the old standard established by Steve Simon in 1965-66.

Almost Assured of Job

Hirsch Wants to be Part of UW Revival

MADISON (AP)— Wisconsin's athletic board is calling the signals but everyone expects Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch will be carrying the ball.

Hirsch, assistant to the president of the Los Angeles Rams, arrived in Madison Wednesday and immediately met with the university's athletic board in an informal but closed session. He is almost assured to be offered the job as athletic director.

Item 1—Prof. Fred W. Haberman, chairman of the athletic board, said Hirsch's interview "is the only one scheduled at this time."

Item 2—Hirsch told newsmen Wednesday. "I love this state, and this is my school. If in some way I can help be a part of a Wisconsin resurgence, it would be a tremendous thrill for me."

For Friday Morning
Item 3—University officials have scheduled a news conference, with Hirsch present, for Friday morning.

The main stumbling block, if there is one, appears to be the possibility that Hirsch and the university may not agree on the salary range. But alumni sources indicate the school is ready to make a satisfactory arrangement with the former college and pro football star.

Hirsch was scheduled to meet with the board's search and screen committee today regarding the job left vacant by the firing of Ivan B. Ivy) Williamson on Jan. 10. Williamson died Wednesday night after suffering brain injuries in a fall at his home.

The Friday news conference, university officials said, could not be construed as "a definite assurance" that Hirsch would be named to the post.

A native of Wausau, Wis., Hirsch sparked Wisconsin to an 8-1-1 record as a breakaway halfback in 1942. The following year, as a Marine trainee, he was one of the cogs in Michigan's Big 10 co-championship team.

While at Michigan, Hirsch became the first Wolverine athlete in history to win letters in four sports—football, basketball, baseball and track.

He joined the Chicago Rockets of the old All-America Conference after World War II, but gained his greatest pro fame as an end for the Los Angeles Rams. He is a member of Pro Football's Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio.

"I'm here to find out things about the job," he said Wednesday. "I'd want to know their problems. I don't actually know exactly what they are. I'd want to know about authority that goes with the job and the financial end."

"But," he said, "those are secondary if it is possible to do a good job here."

Arlie Mucks Jr., executive director of the Wisconsin Alumni Association, said, "Elroy would pay for his salary 10 times in a couple of years just by going around the state. His value is far greater than we realize."

"I have not received one single call or one letter suggesting anybody but Elroy," Mucks said. "We need this breath of fresh air."

The hotel in New York, like much of New York, has seen grander days. "They're going to tear it down and put up a shack," one of the Lakers said. "The Queen of England stopped here." someone said. "And was Sir Francis Drake with her?" someone else wanted to know.

In Milwaukee, a voice in the back marvels at the presence of elevators. "What they have elevators in this place for? You could step out of a second-story window." "They go sideways," someone explained to him.

A 48-Minute Disgrace
The game in Milwaukee is a 48-minute athletic disgrace. The Lakers throw the ball around like a hot diamond when the cops come. The coach looks at them as though they were something crawling off his breakfast plate.

The ride to New York was as quiet as the Lakers ever get. Elgin had had enough of this by the time they were over Buffalo. He spotted Mel Counts, the 7-foot center

"Melvin, did you go out with 'Frankenstein'?" "Frankenstein" is the San Diego Rockets' 7-foot pivot man, Henry Finkel. Sometimes he comes out "Finkelstein" in Elgin's menagerie. Have they got the bolts out yet?" Elgin wonders. "Is he fully programmed yet?"

"Who is 'Frankenstein'?" Elgin is asked. "Finkel," he says happily. "It's too bad Boris Karloff died," says a voice in the back of the plane. "He could have played Finkel's life story." "Yeah," was a counter. "I Was a Teen Age Monster in the Pivot for San Diego."

The conversation turned to the New York Knickerbockers who are currently "scarfing" the lead. "What's a 'Knickerbocker'?" someone wants to know. Elgin stirred, savoring the opportunity. Chamberlain leaped in: "Wait a minute!" he said. "Now you wouldn't be about to tell a lie, would you, Elg? It ain't in you to lie, is it?" Elgin gave him a look of injured innocence. Then he sat back and smiled wistfully. Once more, he had stirred up the tranquility.

Appleton East JVs Boost Record to 13-2

The Appleton East junior varsity basketball team, which closed its season Friday as host to Leafs, Montreal goalie Gump Pond du Lac, scored two wins Worsley had to leave the game when he was knocked unconscious in a goal-mouth collision with teammate Jacques Laperriere and Toronto's Bob Pulford in the first period. All five Maple Leaf goals came against his replacement, Rogatien Vachon.

Toronto, holding four games in hand on both Detroit and New York, put pressure on the Red Wings and Rangers by knocking off Montreal. The victory left the Maple Leafs only two points back of fourth-place Detroit and three behind third place New York.

Toronto's Dave Keon scored a goal while killing a penalty and triggered a three-goal second period flurry for the Maple Leafs. Montreal goalie Gump Pond du Lac, scored two wins Worsley had to leave the game when he was knocked unconscious in a goal-mouth collision with teammate Jacques Laperriere and Toronto's Bob Pulford in the first period. All five Maple Leaf goals came against his replacement, Rogatien Vachon.

The Junior Patriots stopped Oshkosh, 59-29 as Don Werner's 16 points led the way; and beat Sheboygan North, 60-40, with Werner scoring 18, and Tom Stein 14.

Basketball Road Trip Is Crashing Bore

NEW YORK — North Central Airlines flight No. 579 kicked and bucked and groaned its way out to the flight line, and in Seat No. 17A, Elgin Baylor surveyed a map with distaste as if it were a missed layup.

"Thirty minutes from Chicago to Milwaukee and it ain't but 68 miles," he complained loudly to the gods.

"Ninety miles, it's 90 miles," Wilt Chamberlain corrected him. Wilt Chamberlain is always correcting him.

Elgin turned his imperious gaze on Chamberlain. "Its 68 air miles. It's 90 miles by dogsled. But we're going to fly there. At least I think we are, if they ever get the rubber bands around the props on this thing. Where did they get this airplane — in the Smithsonian? How many wings it got. You could walk to Milwaukee in 30 minutes. The squatters made it in 30 minutes 100 years ago."

"Beef" Did
He went back to studying his map. "Hey!" he exclaimed. "you know there was a nonstop out of L. A. to Milwaukee? Who made up our schedule?" "Beef" did," someone told him. "Beef" is the quondam coach and current general manager of the Lakers, Fred Schaugh. "Beef" is the repository of almost as many complaints in absentia as he was when he was coaching. Basketball players think the Johnston Flood was started by the front office, which is a very rich organization given over only to counting money and arranging harassing travel schedules.

Nicknames for All
"No. 'Sniffles' did," corrected Elgin Baylor. "Sniffles" would be Rod Hundley, the only 6-foot-4-inch radio broadcaster this side of Howard Cosell, whom he does not otherwise resemble. Elgin would have a nickname for the Angel Gabriel and, chances are it would not be complimentary. Elgin sees a flawed world.

Flight 579 finally hit the ground in Milwaukee right on schedule, taxiing up alongside one of the line's gleaming new jets. "Why didn't we take a taxi?" someone asked. "That's just a prop," Elgin informed him. "It don't fly at all."

The basketball road trip is one of life's great vacuums — long periods of crashing boredom, punctuated by headlong 90-foot dashes up and down a hardwood floor every 24 seconds.

The first thing done when a crew hits an airport is known as the "all-court scarf."

"Scarf" is a verb in Lakeland. It means, sort of, "to eat." "Scarfig is distinct from regular eating in the length of time devoted to digestion. For instance, a tuna fish sandwich calls for the gulp "scarf." It and a carton of milk will be lucky to last a full three-second rule. It's in

Wisconsin Taxes Compared

The Tax Foundation, Inc., a reliable, non-partisan and non-profit research organization devoted to public affairs and civic education, has reported that Wisconsin in 1967 had the heaviest load of state and local taxes per resident in the Great Lakes region and ranked ninth in the nation.

The year 1967 is the latest for which complete information available for comparison was available to the Foundation when it prepared its annual comparative study recently.

Standing alone, this revelation may irritate some Wisconsin residents and prompt them to mutter, "I told you so." Yet we should be accustomed at this late date to reading that our rate of taxation, on a per capita and on a per $1,000 of personal income basis, is comparatively high. In 1967 the per capita state-local tax load of $354 represented an increase of 90 per cent over a ten year period.

But because the income of Wisconsin taxpayers has also grown substantially during that period, the tax ratio to total income is more favorable. The weight by that index was only 22 per cent higher than ten years earlier, $120 per $1,000 against $98. Nationally the state-local tax burden in relation to income was about 21 per cent during the last ten year period.

These contrasting relationships should caution us about making easy generalizations about our tax position in the country. Although it has been comparatively unfavorable over a considerable period, there are qualifying factors, as in the diversity and quality of most of our basic governmental services.

Moreover, our position has actually improved comparatively, and there is a good chance that it will improve again when the 1968 and perhaps the 1969 data are made public. Prof. Udell of the University of Wisconsin School of Business Research recently reminded the Governor's Board on Economic Development that not so long ago Wisconsin ranked third or fourth in the country in its tax levies. The ninth place ranking in 1967 is surely an encouraging improvement even if we remember that Wisconsin state and local governments have tended to borrow more heavily in recent years, which is a method of deferring current tax liability.

The chance of an improvement in comparative ranking next year, and possibly in the year following, results from the circumstance that the state government of Wisconsin managed to avoid raising taxes for 1967 and 1968, while other states in the Great Lakes region did not. It is true that there is a comparatively heavy increase in state taxes, and perhaps local taxes also, coming in 1969 and 1970. But Wisconsin's financial problems are not unique. They are typical of those of most of the states of the country. Thus the Tax Foundation's finding, considered without qualifications, may very well be more unfavorable than the facts warrant.

Commuting by Air?

Fox Cities residents who have lived in the larger metropolitan areas of our land usually are thankful that they no longer have to fight traffic to come to work. Traffic slowdowns and snarls are a modern day custom which have not yet afflicted this area, although it unfortunately seems that adoption of the 20th Century transportation ritual here will be only a matter of time.

It is becoming more common for persons living in the Fox Valley to drive 30 or more miles to work daily. Such a trip is the rule rather than the exception elsewhere. Suburban sprawl results, and expressways usually follow. But what do you do when there is no land on which to expand?

The city of Honolulu on the island of Oahu in the Hawaiian chain faces such a problem. The state's lieutenant governor has proposed that Molokai, an island 20 miles southwest of Oahu, could become a suburb of the state capital. Such a suggestion is surely thinking ahead, for it takes into account the rapid development of efficient short-range aircraft and the rapid growth of Honolulu. And it would avoid expressway traffic jams. But what would happen if one's vehicle would stall 2,000 feet over the Pacific Ocean? Perhaps traffic jams aren't so bad after all. At least they're on dry land.

The Boring Details of the Democratic Process

One of the most interesting set of circumstances involved in the campus upheavals across the land is taking place at San Francisco State College where Dr. S. I. Hayakawa has become acting president of the violence-torn school. Hayakawa has an international reputation in his specialty of semantics — the study of the meaning of words and of the changes in these meanings.

If it is true that one of the problems on the campus today is a generation gap which makes it impossible for either side to understand what the other is talking about, Hayakawa's background as a scholar and his new responsibility as an administrator should provide some sound advice. And he has clearly stated his views in a copy-righted interview in U. S. News and World Report.

Hayakawa, once a student at the University of Wisconsin, says there is an intense student impatience over social reform. In large part, he says, this results from the status of television in American society, "which makes all social problems seem more urgent and intense."

"Furthermore, television doesn't teach us how democracy works. It is too much governed by the demands of 'show business.' Its commercials proclaim instant solutions for upset stomach, neuralgia, or bad breath, and its news reporting sums up even more complex events in half-hour programs with a neat wrap-up at the end.

"The boring details of the democratic process, such as hearings before city councils, endless facts about taxation or school budgets — these you seldom learn on television.

"... Therefore, I have an unverifiable feeling that maybe one of our problems is that we have created within the younger generation, largely through television, a whole bunch of young people who are impatient with the democratic process because they don't understand it. They think that violent and immediate 'confrontation,' which has all the advantages of a television drama, is the way to solve social problems," Hayakawa said in the interview.

The network coverage of the conflict on the University of Wisconsin campus provides a current case in point. Each night, there was a 30-second "battle situation" film clip, but never was there a comprehensive explanation on what the whole fuss was about. One network said blandly — and we think incorrectly — that the protests were against the fact of racism on the Wisconsin campus.

The worries expressed by Hayakawa have been detailed before, about television's coverage of urban riots and political conventions. Television has the problem of becoming part of an event rather than a witness and it seems dedicated to a belief that action pictures must always be chosen over "the boring details of the democratic process," of which Hayakawa speaks.

Some responsible critics within the television news field have expressed these same worries and called for their recognition. Hayakawa's observations from the frontline of confrontation should become a part of this effort to meet television's responsibility, even if a few films have to be junked to explain what really is going on.

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Feb. 27, 1869.

On Thursday afternoon and evening of last week Rhine Lodge No. 163, of Odd Fellows was instituted in this place at the Hall.

The Lodge is a German one and enters the field of benevolence with excellent purpose and prospects of success. The charter members are substantial citizens who design that their lodge shall be the correct reflection of Odd Fellowship.

The new Lodge was instituted by the Grand Master, assisted by members of the Order from Green Bay, Oshkosh, Omro and New London, from which places delegations were present.

In the evening a good supper was spread in Kamps Hall, to which the fraternity paid ample attention. During the supper, Mr. Wickbold's band aided digestion with good music. After a rich anecdote from W.

H. Lanphear, which brought down the house, the members returned to lodge work which continued until a late hour.

Kraft Writes

Nixon Will Soon Have to Stop Ducking Decisions on Vietnam

BY JOSEPH KRAFT
WASHINGTON — Getting through Tet without disaster is perhaps an accomplishment in itself. But otherwise Vietnam presents a continuing balance sheet of high losses and no gains — a balance sheet that fairly begs the Nixon administration to begin making the decisions it has so far been ducking.

The losses, of course, occur on the battlefield. The American military are now engaged in a series of major thrusts and sweeps designed to keep the other side of balance. For example, a new penetration of the Ashau Valley was announced last week.

With American troops on the move, the other side cannot sit still. Inevitably, combat has wound up and casualties continue. The American death rate recently has been running at about 200 weekly.

LODGE FOR HARRIMAN
Set against those losses, there are the non-gains being made at the Paris negotiations and in the politics of Saigon. In Paris, to be sure, Henry Cabot Lodge has replaced Averell Harriman as the chief

American negotiator. But the talks have not picked up the momentum they lost in October when the Saigon government balked at meeting with the representatives of the National Liberation Front, or Vietcong.

The chief Communist official on the spot, Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam, has now left Paris. His departure is not explained by the need to get Hanoi's reaction to a new set of American proposals. And it strains even the abundant credulity normally lavished on Vietnamese affairs to suppose that he needed to go home because of developments on the battlefield.

On the contrary, Tho's departure looks like a take-it-or-leave-it gesture, a dramatic acting out of the statement that nothing is doing in the talks, or can be doing, until the United States makes some new moves. And that view is underlined by some strange reports on the talks coming out of the Soviet Union. These reports disclose the fact of secret talks between Americans and North Vietnamese in Paris. But they state that no progress has been made.

As to political movement in Saigon, stirrings up to a couple of weeks ago suggested developing readiness to make some kind of accommodation with the Vietcong. But since then there has been a government crackdown.

STIFFENING IS OFFICIAL
The other day, eleven students were convicted of working for the enemy and given terms of from two to seven years. A liberal Catholic newspaper was shut down. And over the weekend, President Nguyen Van Thieu made the stiffening official. He said there was no reason to give the other side access to political power in Saigon because "we are winning on the battlefield."

This adverse balance sheet plainly needs to be changed in the near future. And a number of obvious possibilities for getting matters off dead center exist.

Probably the most interesting idea is to stimulate political movements in Saigon by indicating now what everybody knows is going to have to come about eventually — new elections in South Vietnam. Another possibility is to bring back to the Paris talks one of the things Averell Harriman had going for him and Cabot Lodge does not have going for him — the help of the Soviet Union. Finally, for the purpose of cutting down this country's casualties, there is the continuing possibility of winding down the level of American military activity.

All these measures demand new decisions by the Nixon administration. One decision in particular seems required — the decision to dispel, for all time and in all quarters, the illusion that this country is going to achieve success in Vietnam through military means.

Governor's Message On Crime Raises Old Money Query Again

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — The message to the legislature by Gov. Knowles about the increasing gravity of crime statistics and the need for a strengthening and modernization of public law enforcement machinery and methods was one of the most thoughtful of the many he has sent to the lawmakers during his gubernatorial career.

It showed especially painstaking research and sober reflection about the implications of the rising curve of law violations in the country and in the state.

Wisconsin residents and civic leaders sometimes assume that the problems of crime are in the distant metropolitan centers of the country — perhaps as an unconscious result of the influence of some of the communications media.

STATE RATE INCREASES
But after reciting the shameful facts about national crime trends, including the suggestions, assuming their enactment in whole or in part, would be to make the state a more effective and active partner of localities in the increasingly pressing problems of suppression of law violations and the apprehension of criminals.

As the governor noted, the localities historically have had the primary responsibility in these fields. Even today they spend about 70 per cent of the money provided by the people of Wisconsin of law enforcement within the state.

It is at this point that the governor, for reasonably apparent causes, fails to follow up the logic of his own arguments.

NEED MORE SOPHISTICATED

Most persons will probably support the idea that in an era of increasingly sophisticated criminals, a startling increase in lawlessness, and more advantages in transport and communication for the violator than earlier generations of criminals ever had, Wisconsin must move out of the era of the whistle and the night stick, as he put it.

But how? Can the state reasonably require the localities, already financially strapped and sharply limited in their financing methods, to insist on a higher professional standard among law enforcement officers? Obviously, better trained, better equipped police will cost more money. If fact, one of the problems in police will cost more money. In fact, one of the problems in police administration today, admitted by all informed persons, is the difficulty of recruiting the ablest young men because of indifferent salary scales.

Will the state contribute a share of the extra dollars that will be needed to give the governor the kind of program he desires?

FUNDING NOT MENTIONED

He didn't say. In the financial situation in which he finds himself, that is perhaps a natural and predictable position. This illustrates one of the causes of the inexorably rising burden of public taxes. Problems, conditions and needs change. A more complicated society brings a more complex government.

As Mr. Knowles said in his budget message earlier, taxation is the price paid for civilization. Surely the right of citizens to the protection of the laws and the apprehension and punishment of wrongdoing is one of the tests of a civilization.

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The trouble with advice is that you don't know whose to take; and if you know whose to take, you don't need advice.

I read a motto the other day that went: "Shallow men believe in luck; strong men believe in cause and effect." It should have added that wise men know that luck often intervenes between causes and effect.

A good chairman of a meeting is one who has the ability to let each person speak his piece without letting the meeting go to pieces.

The kind of "love" that separates lovers from the world is only a form of infatuation; the only love capable of being permanent and productive is that which joins the lovers to the world, and radiates its influence rather than reciprocating it between only two.

The way to cure the symptoms of revolt in this country, or in any country, is by more freedom, not less; as C. Stanley Lowell points out: "Revolution in a free country is a contradiction in terms — freedom exists for the purpose of making revolution unnecessary."

In evaluating vandalism against schools, it's worth considering whether it's committed by children who aren't worthy of the schools, or against schools that aren't worthy of the children.

One reason that modern rock music doesn't get through to adults is that we were conditioned to listen only to the tune, and the lyrics were irrelevant or hopelessly banal; but in modern tunes, the words are crucial to any appreciation of what the song is trying to say.

The medical diagnosis is not always the same as the "cause" of death — the medical diagnosis may be "congestive heart failure," but the cause of death may be alcoholism; or the medical diagnosis may be "natural causes," but the true cause of death may be melancholia and loss of self-esteem.

The fact that we are so preoccupied with the idea of "conforming" is the best evidence that we are not conforming to much — for a genuinely conforming culture is unaware of what it is doing, and assumes that the conventional is the natural.

We have studied the way men behave under stress in jungles, in deserts, marooned on islands, underwater in submarines, and even encapsulated in outer space — but the way millions are forced to behave under the permanent stress of the asphalt jungle in urban slums has not been studied sufficiently to evoke the widespread sympathy that would be necessary to abolish this distorted environment.

What are we spending for "military research" — and how much for that almost unknown phrase, "peace research?"

Letter From Vietnam

Good Guys Don't Always Win

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — "War is all the horrible things a human being can do to another human being because he has not learned to love..." These were the words of Air Force Maj. Victor Colasuonno in answer to a query from the fourth grade class at Church of the Magdalen Catholic School here, of which his son, Kenneth, is a member. Major Colasuonno, a pilot, was killed in action last week in Vietnam where he had been assigned since June. Services were held here Wednesday. While in Vietnam he had written regularly to the school where his three sons, Kenneth, Bobby and Stephen, and daughter Patty attend. Colasuonno was stationed at McConnell Air Force Base here before going to Vietnam. Some of the fourth grade boys had written at Christmas time and had asked, "What is war?" His answer, read to the entire school after his death: "I'll tell you what war is not," the major wrote. "It is not a glamorous, daredevil existence where the 'good guys' always win."

"It is not a fearless fighter pilot jumping into his airplane to shoot down the enemy. It is not a game which you play (and which I played as a child), where you go home to a good supper and a warm bed after it is over."

"Real Humans"

"War is fought by real human beings, not Hollywood stars—men like your daddy and perhaps older brothers."

"We all face a moment of truth when we must overcome our fears and do what must be done, no matter how difficult."

"War is a time of tears when we must overcome our sorrow for our fellow comrades and do what must be done, no matter how difficult."

"War is the curse of mankind because he will not listen to God's will. War is the agony of mankind because he will not love his neighbor."

If man learns to love, the major concluded his letter, "There would be no wars, for man does not hurt what he loves."

"Perhaps your generation can accomplish this—it seems that mine has failed."

"Do not allow adults to teach you to hate—for no reason and against no man."

Cites Threat Of Soviets, Red Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today he personally tends to approve construction of an antiballistic missile system to defend the United States against missile attacks.

But he emphasized he is not prejudging the review he has ordered on the controversial Sentinel system.

And he said he would want to be free, in the event an ABM system is approved, to deploy missiles if he felt them necessary even if disarmament talks were going on with the Soviet Union.

Laird cited increased Soviet and Red Chinese missile capabilities in stating this position.

"I'm not trying to prejudice the review that is now underway," the defense chief told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "but I want to be frank with this committee. I personally lean toward going forward with (an ABM) system. It might very well be needed."

Laird reported the Soviet Union is going forward with tests on a "sophisticated new antiballistic missile system" and this will weigh heavily in the U.S. decision on a missile shield.

Laird told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the United States might want to go ahead with its suspended $5.5 billion Sentinel system even if the two major nuclear powers agree to begin talks on strategic arms limitations.

Talks May Be Long
"I would not want to say we would not go forward with this particular system..." Laird said. "These talks could take a long period of time."

He stressed that no decision has been made on whether to go ahead with deployment of the controversial ABM system.

But speaking in support of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty under consideration by the committee, Laird was pressed by Chairman J. W. Fulbright as to whether he would engage immediately in disarmament talks once the treaty is ratified.

It was at this point Laird revealed the Soviet Union not only has gone forward with its own ABM system, but "It is testing a sophisticated new ABM system, on the basis of the best information available to me."

"Could Hit U.S."
And he said, "I believe the Chinese will test fire an ICBM test missile in the next 18 months. It will have a stockpile of 1975 of 20 to 30 ICBMs that could hit the United States."

Last week, Laird estimated the Chinese potential stockpile at 18 to 20 missiles, with no estimated date of readiness.

Pointing to this information, Laird told Fulbright: "I must take into consideration the national security of the United States and the safety of our people."

"I would not want to be precluded, merely because talks had started under the treaty from going forward with this particular (ABM) system if the review now under way results in such a decision," he added. "It

Worldwide Investigation

Foreign Aid Probe Planned by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators, reporting "shocking disclosures of widespread corruption" in a U.S.-Vietnam aid program, now plan a worldwide look at American overseas assistance.

Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the investigations subcommittee, said today the global review was needed to "eliminate and prevent the uneconomic, illegal and corrupt practices by which taxpayers' dollars have been siphoned..."

He commented in submitting to the Senate a report of the subcommittee's two-year investigation of the commodity-import program in Vietnam. Among its findings:

— "Dishonesty and fraud involving kickbacks, ineligible commissions, excessive and exorbitant prices, shipments of products without value or utility and violations of U.S. or South Vietnamese regulations."

— "Diversion of American dollars to bank accounts, in Switzerland and elsewhere, of South Vietnamese importers, with an adverse effect on the U.S. balance of payments."

McClellan also noted that the Agency for International Development, which administers the foreign-aid program, had cooperated in the investigation and had acted to correct abuses uncovered.

At the same time, McClellan faulted the agency for what he said was "failure to act swiftly and decisively" when some of the abuses were first disclosed.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a member of the investigations subcommittee, said in a minority report that, while extensive, improprieties were uncovered in Vietnam, the disclosures "led to major corrective action by AID or to indictment of wrongdoers."

McClellan set no timetable for the global investigation.

The report summarized specific cases that were aired at public hearings in 1967 and 1968. Some of them have become famous.

They include the $250,000 purchase of a product the maker claimed would make an automobile battery last for 10 years. The National Bureau of Standards said it was "without merit."

And there was the purchase, also with AID funds, of ocean water in medicinal capsules labeled "Biocean."

Flight Delayed By Bomb Threat At JFK Airport

NEW YORK (AP) — A Trans World Airlines jet bound for Israel was delayed at Kennedy Airport nearly three hours today after receipt of a telephone bomb threat. Port of New York authority police reported.

Police said a woman called TWA reservations shortly before 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and said, "There's a bomb on the next flight leaving for Asia or Asia Minor. It will explode and all will be killed."

TWA flight 840 with 132 passengers aboard was at that moment preparing to taxi out for takeoff on a flight to Tel Aviv with stops at Rome and Athens. The passengers were taken off and the plane and baggage inspected.

No bomb was found but three of the passengers canceled their reservations and stayed behind when the flight finally departed at 1:15 a.m.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Spec. 4 Clarence C. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Adams of Milwaukee, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Pentagon announced Wednesday.

Lodge Favors Geneva Accords

Negotiators in Paris Don't Agree on 'Common Ground'

PARIS (AP) — The United States insisted today that common ground exists at the Vietnam peace talks to bring the conflict to an end, but the atmosphere of deadlock deepened as Hanoi and the National Liberation Front stuck by their all-or-nothing demands.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the North Vietnamese and the NLF that the 1954 Geneva accords provide the common ground, and that it was in the spirit of the basic principles of those accords that the Americans had made their proposals for a military de-escalation.

Lodge claimed the other side recognized last week that the solution of military issues is "an absolutely essential first step" for the creation of conditions in which political problems can be resolved. He recalled that the Hanoi-Front side had called the withdrawal of troops a "fundamental question."

"Thus," he said, "your side and our side seem to agree that military issues and particularly the question of withdrawal of military forces are of key importance to an over-all settlement."

This session of the talks lasted 5 hours and 25 minutes, the shortest a full plenary session to date by about 45 minutes. Both sides agreed to meet again next Thursday.

The NLF and North Vietnam restated in tough terms a demand that the United States

"completely and unconditionally" withdraw troops "and those of its satellites" from South Vietnam.

If anything, the words of the NLF delegate, Tran Bui Kiem, were more acrimonious than ever. He compared the U.S. government to the former Fascist regimes of Germany, Italy and Japan.

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy supported the NLF delegate, including his demand that the future of South Vietnam be settled "according to the political program" of the front. The Americans regard this demand as a call for complete U.S. surrender in advance of any settlement.

Thus, the deadlock seemed at least as stubborn as ever at the fifth of the four-way full dress sessions of the four delegations at the International Conference Center.

Lodge responded that the other side, by making sweeping and unconditional demands, was not using the "language of negotiation."

"Nothing in Return"
"We have sought to identify common ground upon which the structure of peace in Vietnam could be built," Lodge said. "However, your side has rejected this approach. You have offered no concrete proposals in return. You have even, it seems, rejected the fundamental objective of our negotiations, which is to find common ground."

Lodge urged that attention be focused on the 1954 Geneva accords which ended the French phase of the war and divided Vietnam between North and South.

"The United States," said Lodge, "supports the principles of military disengagement and the withdrawal of external forces."

Missing Plane Still Is Missing

HAWTHORNE, Nev. (AP) — Searchers continue the hunt to date for a DC-3, its crew and 32 passengers, which disappeared Tuesday on a flight to California.

The missing plane, operated by Mineral County Airlines of Burbank, Calif., was believed to have crashed near the California-Nevada border, about 70 miles south of Hawthorne and 150 miles southeast of Lake Tahoe.

Pilots in 12 aircraft Wednesday reported seeing only tracks of the jeeps and brush buggies that had been scouring the wild, South.

The United States, said Lodge, "supports the principles of military disengagement and the withdrawal of external forces."

OK Given to Start Apollo Countdown

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — On the seventh anniversary of John Glenn's historic orbit flight, the three Apollo 9 astronauts have passed their final major preflight test and are ready to take man's next step toward the moon.

Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt, Air Force Lt. Col. David R. Scott and civilian Russell L.

ery for sending man into space have changed radically since Glenn blazed a space trail by becoming the first orbiting American Feb. 20, 1962.

The balding Marine lieutenant colonel was reaching for the first plateau in the exploration of space. American astronauts today stand on the threshold of the moon and may land there this summer.

Glenn rode in an Atlas rocket that stood 65 feet tall. The Apollo 9 ship alone, with its three sections, measures 81 feet, and the Saturn 5-spacecraft combination towers 363 feet above the launch pad.

Fueled by kerosene and liquid oxygen, the one-stage atlas generated 367,000 pounds of thrust. Saturn 5's three stages, burning the same propellant, have total thrust of 9,082,000 pounds.

Little use was made of computers during the countdown in Glenn's day. Officials estimate that if the same physical means of checkout were used today, a Saturn 5 countdown might last as long as three months, instead of six days.

Glenn orbited the Earth three times in 4 hours 55 minutes.

The Apollo 9 spacemen are to orbit for 10 days in the most complex U.S. man-in-space flight yet. It will be the first test of the lunar module (LEM) which is designed to land men on the moon.

Northwest Passage

Crews Try to Capture Islands

HOUSTON (AP) — A special four-man crew plans to spend the next 40 days or so spraying water on a couple of huge chunks of ice in the Arctic Ocean.

The scientific study is part of a high priority project aimed at determining whether a year round tanker route by way of the Northwest Passage is feasible for transporting oil from Alaska's Arctic Slope to East Coast refineries.

The experiment became possible Jan. 26 when it was discovered unexpectedly that two huge "ice islands" had grounded themselves in 90 feet of water just 20 to 30 miles north of the Prudhoe Bay area where two oil wells with great production potentials were completed last year.

some day will be using the ice islands as moorings.

"This is a God given opportunity to find out what we want to know," said Stanley B. Haas, project manager of the Arctic marine task force of the Humble Oil & Refining Co.

"Exceedingly Rare"
Hiding enthusiasm is impossible for Dr. Harold R. Peyton, a University of Alaska Arctic engineering expert who is a consultant to Humble on the ice islands study.

"Having ice islands in this area is a very unusual circumstance, exceedingly rare," Peyton said. "It is so rare it perhaps happens only every 100 years. No one really knows."

But about 75 islands of varying sizes suddenly appeared off the north slope in January and the two large ones involved in the study grounded themselves about 300 feet apart in just about the exact position the tanker route would need moorings for anchorage while taking on cargo by pipeline.

"What we need to know is how a grounded structure behaves in such an environment," Haas said. "We thought of building an observation platform and then heard of the ice islands. They seem to be suited for our purpose."

Ice islands are formed when giant sheets of shelf ice slide off the north side of Ellesmere Island above the Northwest Passage and start a clockwise movement about the Arctic. They have a thickness of 160 to 180 feet and, before breaking up, may be 10 to 25 miles long.

2-Year Budget Slashed $1.1 Million Army Home to Fight Cuts

KING — John Moses, secretary of the state Department of Veterans Affairs, met Tuesday with Grand Army Home officials to discuss ways to regain the $1.1 million sliced from the $8,171,900 two-year home budget by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

Moses said Walter Rose, acting chairman of the Board of Veterans Affairs, will present an appeal Tuesday to the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee seeking reinstatement of funds.

"Almost all of the funds cut were for increases in medical and nursing care," Moses said. Although funds for 131.5 additional employees were authorized, money for an additional 97 nurses and assistants was cut.

The home here does not meet the minimum standards set by the state Department of Health and Social Services, although privately operated nursing homes are required to meet these standards, he said.

Minimal Care

"The two doctors we have are not able to provide minimal care except on an emergency basis," Moses said. The home has 552 residents. However, funds have been authorized for an additional doctor who will start March 15.

On the other hand, he said, "a national primary, in my opinion could not avoid polarizing the differences within the party."

Steiger said the unwillingness of McCarthy to reconcile his differences with Vice President Hubert Humphrey "was an important cause for the failure of the Democratic convention to unify the party in 1968."

Even after it was evident that he would not win the nomination, McCarthy refused to support Humphrey, Steiger said.

He charged that McCarthy was following the rules of a national primary rather than the important informal rules of the convention system.

Steiger added that the costs to the candidates of running in primaries simultaneously in 50 states would eliminate all but wealthy men from the presidential race.

Rather than reform the convention system, he said, the Congress should work to solve "the far bigger problem in our election system — the electoral college."

He said, "The election of the President by the people is the first goal to achieve."

Business will prosper because

In 1965 the hospital was approved by the American Hospital Association. Last year, he said, accreditation was revoked because the hospital was understaffed.

Moses said the lack of accreditation may affect the ability of the home to participate in medicare and medical programs.

He said the state board must either limit the homes membership, or accept members in an understaffed facility because of the budget cut.

According to John Welch, home business manager, each registered nurse must care for 22.9 patients. There are four patients for each nursing assistant.

"It takes 475 employees to man one post on an around-the-clock basis in a hospital," Welch said.

One recreational therapist and two assistants supervise entertainment for the 552 members.

The nursing center here is the only such facility in the state, Welch said.

Although there are state hospitals at Wood, Madison and Tomah, none provide nursing facilities as the home here does.

Five buildings, including a 200-bed nursing care center, a water and sewage treatment plant, fire station and maintenance are under construction at the home.

Welch said the building program has not been substantially affected by the cut.

Challenge of Defense Post Tarr Backs Voluntary Military Duty

The establishment of a volunteer force for the military services and possible elimination of the draft will be one of the major challenges facing Dr. Curtis W. Tarr when he assumes his duties as assistant secretary of the Air Force for manpower.

The retiring president of Lawrence University discussed certain aspects of his Pentagon post when he spoke Wednesday at a university press conference.

Tarr emphasized he will be concerned with Defense Department policy rather than with its operation.

Policy Review

"But superimposed on the secretary level will be a review of policy . . . and my concern is directed toward policy matters in the Air Force related to human resources," Tarr said.

He indicated that several "key decisions need to be made" concerning a sufficient number of personnel to populate the armed forces.

Questions relative to scaling down the size of the force, what is to be done with the draft, anticipated revisions of the draft, training of ROTC units, which "has been under criticism lately, also are areas of concern to Tarr in his key government post.

Draw on Experiences

Tarr said his new position is directly related to his experiences on the college campuses.

"Laird and Packard (secretary and deputy secretary of defense) were anxious for me to accept the secretary job," Tarr explained. He indicated that none of the other candidates for the position had recent direct experience with problems on the college campus.

"There is a demand for technological and human skills in the services . . . dependent on people with education on the campus," the new secretary noted.

Much Needed

Packard and Laird are vitally concerned with the campus situation and with my knowledge and understanding of the motivations of the students on campus, Tarr said.

"There are too many things that need to be done . . . to try to tackle the total challenge of the job," the appointee stated.

In addition to working on aspects of the volunteer force, Tarr said that officer procurement and continuing the Defense Department's program for providing educational opportunities for the socially disadvantaged will be his other challenges.

Tarr also indicated that he will not advocate the elimination of the draft. "This is a difficult question to answer. . . we have to maintain our military capabilities, and with the war still going on in Vietnam this is a moot question at this time," he said.

But he hinted at the possibility of abolishing the draft after Vietnam only if it is possible to "fulfill our military service needs."

Task Force

Tarr said he doesn't feel his new post will conflict with the Tarr Task Force. However he noted, he is hopeful of getting action on his recommendations before he leaves Lawrence.

He said that "we (the task force) have organized a citizens' group" that will work toward the implementation of the recommendations.

In a letter addressed to students on Feb. 14, Tarr said "though there are important challenges elsewhere in higher education, some of which have been within my grasp, they were not for me."

When asked to explain the meaning of this statement, Tarr said: "anyone who survives in higher education has opportunities to go elsewhere, and it has been within my grasp but I've not wanted to go. My motivation was that the most exciting job in higher education was here at Lawrence."

Tarr explained "when I mentioned that some of these opportunities were not for me, other positions were much grander in scale out did not contain the intimacy I have here at Lawrence."

Snow Removal Proposal Tabled At Waupaca

WAUPACA — An ordinance establishing procedures for snow removal was tabled Tuesday by the city council.

The ordinance set a policy prohibiting the pushing of snow onto a street or alley and established penalties and authorized the city to charge the cost of removal to an offending party.

Unusually heavy and numerous snow storms in December created a problem in the city and started the investigation of a program for controlling snow removal.

Businessmen appearing at the meeting felt there should be a planned program for snow removal and costs should be billed back to property owners.

Coach Don Colbert's cagers now boast an 11-0 record, and they are expected to have little trouble getting past the little place Falcons (2-9). If the Comets (15-2 overall) do finish unbeaten, it will mark the first time a CWC team did so since the 1951-52 Waupaca squad turned the trick.

The Comet-Falcon clash will help put the lid on the regular season for CWC teams. In other conference matches, second-place Marion (9-2) visits third-place Weyauwega (7-4), and fifth-place Iola-Scandinavia (3-8) journeys to fourth-place Wittenberg (4-7).

Sixth-place Manawa (3-9), which edged Amherst, 53-48, to finish its league campaign last week, finishes up at Wild Rose. Waupaca wrapped up the sole conference title last Saturday night, topping Iola-Scandinavia, 66-56, while Marion guaranteed itself of a runnerup finish with a 66-50 conquest of Wittenberg.

Weyauwega's Jim Nolan should have the individual scoring championship in the bag. The Indian sharp-shooter has 266 points for a 24.2 average. Manawa's Doug Langman wound up the year with 250 points for the current second-place total.

Total are Waupaca's Mick Sammes, 231; Amherst's Ray Swetella, 227; Weyauwega's Dennis Harrigan, 224; Wittenberg's Nick Strong and Dave Schmidt, 207 and 191, respectively; Marion's John Braun, 184; Iola's Mark Helgeson, 182; and Manawa's Dale Ferg, 159.

Weyauwega is the current offensive leader with 763 points scored (69.4 average). Waupaca is second with 727 (66.1) and Marion third with 710 (64.5). The Comets head defensive marks with 548 points allowed (49.8 average). Marion has yielded 606 points (55.1) for second, and Weyauwega is next with 670 (60.9).

Optimism Expressed on Land Purchase for Plamann Park

Proposed Development Would Have Golf Course, Campsites

A State Bureau of Planning and Aid Programs official expressed optimism this morning that Outagamie County could receive federal Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funding in fiscal 1970 for two park and recreation projects.

The official, Harry Mills, indicated purchasing the wildlife preserve land near Kaukauna and also 147 acres for a possible recreation complex at Plamann Park "would be seriously considered."

His expression was made by telephone to Charles Hervey Jr., chief park planner for the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

The county board's park committee asked Hervey Wednesday night to find out whether both projects could be funded in a single year.

Funding Possible

Mills indicated they could since one is for recreation and the other wildlife. Hervey said this morning, after he questioned Mills about matching LAWCON funds for the $100,000 Kaukauna site and $154,000 Plamann land.

Hervey added that a combina-

On receiving Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) funding up to 50 per cent. Hervey said: "I would be very doubtful."

Priority List

He predicted the purchase would be at the bottom of the federal LAWCON priority listing for fiscal 1970.

The reason, he said, is because the project is not in the five-year priority list or the comprehensive park plan.

Based on this, "I don't think the (regional planning) commission could support your application," he told Karras, noting the other projects on the list cannot be ignored.

Next on the list is a potential park site near the Fox River and Kaukauna. The county park committee and the health and recreation committee of Kaukauna will meet next week for a possible joint effort to develop the 13-acre Fox River site.

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, park committee chairman, said to include the 147-acre parcel in the program would mean revising the priority listing.

However, he warned that he would oppose any move that would jeopardize acquiring any other parklands, including the Fox River site. There could be a conflict with the Fox River site project, he said.

Referendum in April County Executive Bill Okayed by Legislature

MADISON — Wisconsin voters must be asked to act on a five bodies in two consecutive constitutional amendment referendums, and then go to a referendum in April which, if approved, would permit counties to have elective executives with veto powers.

At present only Milwaukee County is permitted an elective county executive. The state's other 71 counties are bound by the constitution's "uniformity clause."

The last hurdle to placing the question on the ballot was cleared Wednesday when the Assembly passed the resolution by a 94-6 vote. The Senate with veto or appointive powers.

The drive in the Senate for support of the bill was led by Sens. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, and Henry Dorman, D-Racine, both members of the Tarr Task Force.

Ex-Appleton Man, F111A Missing in Mountainous Area

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Almost continual bad weather has severely hampered the search for an Air Force F111A plane carrying a former Appleton man that has been missing in rugged Nevada or Utah mountains more than a week.

Capt. Robert E. Jobe, 31, formerly of Appleton and now living in Las Vegas, was a student pilot on the swept wing fighter-bomber that disappeared the night of Feb. 12 after taking off from Nellis Air Force Base here on a 750-mile detection mission to the Great Salt Lake and back.

Jobe, son of Mrs. T. J. Sherry, 1724 Ivycrest Drive and son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. H. F. O'Brien, 714 E. Eldorado St., was brought to the United States from England to learn to fly the F111A. The only other crewman in the plane when it disappeared was Capt. William Funchlow, 30, Ventura, Calif.

Fog and snow showers interfered Wednesday with the search for the missing airplane.

The same type of adverse mountain weather has restricted search efforts since last week.

Nine Civil Air Patrol planes from Utah and three from Arizona searched with 13 Air Force planes for the missing camouflaged craft on Wednesday. Up to 65 aircraft scoured the mountainous area at times over the weekend.

Several Civil Air Patrol planes that had been searching for Jobe's plane were called on Wednesday to hunt for a missing DC3 plane that went down in southwestern Nevada with 35 persons aboard.

'Last' U.S. Space Walk To be Taken by Civilian

EDITOR'S NOTE—Three astronauts are scheduled to be launched into space on Feb. 28 in another step toward the goal of landing U.S. spacemen on the moon by mid-1969. The Apollo 9 mission, probably the most complex of the manned flights yet, will test the lunar module, which eventually will take astronauts to the moon surface from their orbiting spacecraft. Here, in the second of three articles on Apollo 9, civilian astronaut Russell L. Schweickart describes what his space walk mission is expected to be like.

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Standing in golden slippers outside orbiting Apollo 9, the next American to walk in the loneliness of space plans to pause and let the thrill of the moment sink in.

"When you are in it, you get so startled up with details that you have to sort of sit back for a minute and stop yourself to realize what it is that you are doing and how beautiful it is," said red-haired Russell L. "Rusky" Schweickart, as he pondered the two hours he plans to spend outside Apollo 9.

"I think it's probably the greatest view in the world. I'm looking forward to it," the 33-year-old civilian astronaut said with a smile.

"Always a Risk"

"There, of course, is always a risk, but it's no more or less than we've experienced previously" in space walks during the two-man Gemini program, Schweickart said.

If all goes well on Apollo 9, the freckle-faced father of five will be the last man to stroll outside an American spaceship during a mission until astronauts walk on the moon.

The 10 days of Apollo 9 scheduled to begin Feb. 28—with Schweickart and Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott—will be the first manned flight of a lunar module, LEM, the ungainly looking craft that will taxi future astronauts from an Apollo ship in moon orbit to the lunar surface, possibly in June or July.

Project officials and astronauts want to know how spacemen can transfer from the LEM back to the Apollo mother ship if hatches in a connecting internal tunnel do not open properly when the two ships rendezvous and dock in moon orbit.

It's up to Schweickart, who has never flown in space before, to provide the answer. After easing out the LEM's outside hatch, the astronaut is to move over hand on rails to the command ship's open door and slip into the sister ship up to his waist.

"This is the only time, except in an emergency condition, where this extra-vehicular transfer will be made," the space walker said. "This is it. After this, other people look at it, see the way I did it, learn from it and perhaps do it a different way."

"But at least they will see the way that I did it, and that hopefully will be of assistance in case anybody has to do this under emergency conditions."

Worth the Time

Schweickart, who once parachuted after the engine of an F86 jet fighter he was piloting blew up, knows the importance of preparing for the unexpected.

"It's worth spending time on developing these emergency procedures. When you have to use them, you don't want to have to think about them. You just want to be able to call on them, and there they are, and they work and you come back and say: 'Well, that was interesting.'"

In America's first attempt to transfer astronauts from one spaceship to another, Schweickart and McDivitt are to float through the internal tunnel, formed when the LEM and three-man Apollo 9 command ship are docked, during their second day in Earth orbit.

Kept alive by a long hose connecting his spacesuit to the mother ship's oxygen supply, Schweickart will enter the LEM first. After turning on the LEM's life-support and electrical systems, he will switch his suit to LEM systems. Then, with both craft properly ventilated, McDivitt will float through the tunnel without any suit connection and plug into LEM systems when he arrives minutes later.

Both crewmen will return to the command ship to spend the night, then return to the LEM in the third day for Schweickart's space walk.

Wearing a spacesuit nearly identical to the one astronauts will have on when they walk on the moon's surface, Schweickart will slip feet first through the LEM's open outside hatch. On his back will be a portable life support system, worn like a knapsack, filled with oxygen to keep him alive.

He will roll to his left 90 degrees and grab a handrail on the left side of the LEM hatch, then sit on the top rung of a ladder that extends from the LEM's "front porch." During the lunar landing mission, astronauts will walk down this ladder to the moon's surface.

McDivitt then will pass out a standard movie camera, which Schweickart mounts on a front porch railing, while Scott aims another camera out the command ship's hatch to photograph Schweickart from the other end of his 15-foot transfer path.

Only the space walker's grasp on the hand rail, plus a 25-foot rope-like safety line attached to him from the LEM will keep the astronaut from floating away.

He then will slip his feet into the "golden slippers"—glass fiber restraining devices on the LEM's front porch—and rest before beginning the transfer to the command ship.

Carefully aiming his legs so he doesn't kick a hole in the LEM's thin-skinned outside thermal cover, Schweickart is to make his way hand over hand along rails to the command module hatch, slip inside so Scott can grab his leg, then return to the LEM.

Turns on Camera

At the conclusion of the transfer, Schweickart plans to turn on a television camera outside the LEM "and go up and down the handrail a couple of feet" to give Earthlings below a better idea what it is like.

The actual transfer is expected to take only 20 minutes. The remainder of his two hours outside will be consumed by rest periods and picture-taking as he is held securely in the golden slippers.

While outside, he intends to pluck pain and glass "thermal samples" attached to the LEM and Apollo 9 command ship, so scientists can later determine what kind of contaminants coat the outside of the spaceship and its windows from things such as engine firings.

"Physically, the primary challenge is to the hand muscles and arm muscles. I don't expect to get out of breath, but I expect my muscles to get tired" from hanging onto handrails, he said. "I'm looking forward to it a great deal. I hope it's going to be as exhilarating and exciting as it looks in the various films."

Next: Scott, the driver

"Yup. That's Him All Right — the same fella who lives in our floor-length mirror at home. And didn't I just see him in a puddle down the street? That fella really gets around. Maybe he's following me. Look at those wrinkles. Glad I don't look like that. Poor guy's on his back, too. Maybe he isn't well." The pooch leading a pooch's life was photographed in Wisconsin Rapids this week as above-freezing temperatures melted some of the snow and ice accumulation. (AP Wire-photo)

Dr. Spock Addresses 1,500 Persons at Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, pediatrician and Vietnam War critic, says racial and religious tensions in the New York City school system stem from "anxiety, rather than viciousness."

Spock spoke Sunday at a rally of 1,500 people to support community control of schools. He said Jewish groups and other whites have over-reacted to some racial slurs by Negroes, who he said have undergone more suffering than other groups.

Hickel Halts Offshore Oil Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, in his third action of the week aimed at preventing another Santa Barbara tragedy, today called off the sale of offshore oil and gas leases.

The sale of 27 Gulf coast tracts that could have brought the government millions of dollars was scheduled for next Tuesday and was the only such sale of federal offshore leases imminent.

Hickel said the sale would be postponed "until we are positive we have regulations which will prevent pollution such as the Santa Barbara tragedy."

He referred to the 11-day leak of a Union Oil Co. well which spread an 800-square-mile slick across the Santa Barbara channel off California before it was plugged Feb. 8.

Companies Responsible
Earlier this week, Hickel issued regulations holding oil companies responsible for cleanup and damage costs from any offshore-well pollution and proposed new and tighter regulations late this year of areas off-limits for drilling in the Santa Barbara channel.

Oil and gas leases along the Gulf of Mexico coastline already have brought the Interior Department close to $200 million in bonus bids.

Sixteen tracts were leased Nov. 19, 1968 for a total of $150 million in bonuses, followed by another 20 tracts for $44 million Jan. 14.

Preliminary steps have been taken toward the possible lease announcing the latest move. We have postponed the Gulf Coast sale as another step in the exhaustive review being conducted into all aspects of federal offshore drilling and production."

Consequently, any bids received for the Louisiana tracts will be returned to the sender.

Pentagon Has 339 Lobbyists On Full-Time Duty in Capitol

By HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department is spending $4 million a year on a lobbying force of 339 more than one for every two members of Congress to keep the congressmen happy, argue the armed forces' tent of view, and feed the Pentagon, information about what's happening on Capitol Hill.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called it "an over-large establishment" and added in an interview:

"It appears to me that admirals and colonels could be used to better purpose and effect, and while I personally appreciate the great assistance which they have rendered I think the same amount of assistance could be accomplished with fewer personnel."

Defense officials say the big legislative liaison force is necessary because of growing demands from and upon members of Congress, including an "astronomical number" of written and telephoned inquiries from their constituents.

Military Influence

While some Pentagon critics see it as further evidence of expanding military influence, defense officials insist there's no cause for concern that the weight of such a disciplined legislative effort might tip the scales in favor of the military's position in a Senate or House debate.

On the contrary, said a Pentagon officer: "We're always being pushed into a corner by the Fulbrights and others."

A congressional source normally sensitive to military pressure or threats said, "I don't think senators regard them in the usual sense as lobbyists but really just as members of the services helping with the mail."

If a congressman or senator asks the Pentagon for information on a military issue, as in the debate over the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system—the veteran Pentagon lawyer, Jack Stemple, assistant to the secretary of defense for legislative affairs.

"It would be silly to say we don't give them material that supports the secretary's decision," said Marine Brig. Gen. James F. Lawrence, deputy assistant to the secretary of defense for legislative affairs.

Easing of Safety Laws Asked for Motorcyclists

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly Highway Committee heard testimony Wednesday on a bill which would narrow the new motorcycle helmet law to covering only those riders under the age of 21.

The committee listened to extensive debate, but took no action.

Assemblyman Merrill Stalbaum, R-Waterford, the sponsor of the bill, spoke to defend his right to "go out and break my neck if I want to."

Stalbaum contended that the Safety Committee was more interested in safety than it was in freedom. He said he was interested in freedom.

He argued that it is traditional within the United States to allow those over 21 to use their discretion in such matters. He pointed to Patrick Henry and Christopher Columbus as reckless people.

Dan Schutz, director of the Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Division spoke against the bill saying that seventy per cent of motorcycle casualties are over 21.

Unwanted 'Baby Girl' Remains in Hospital

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Tucson Medical Center has a baby girl with bright blue eyes, dimples and a tiny scar on her tummy they don't know what to do with.

Neither does anyone else.

The baby was born 24 days ago at Tucson Hospital.

The mother was an unmarried girl from Wisconsin.

Before the baby was born, she arranged for its adoption in Tucson.

But after the birth, a stomach defect was discovered that required immediate surgery.

The operation was performed at TMC.

The mother went back to Wisconsin.

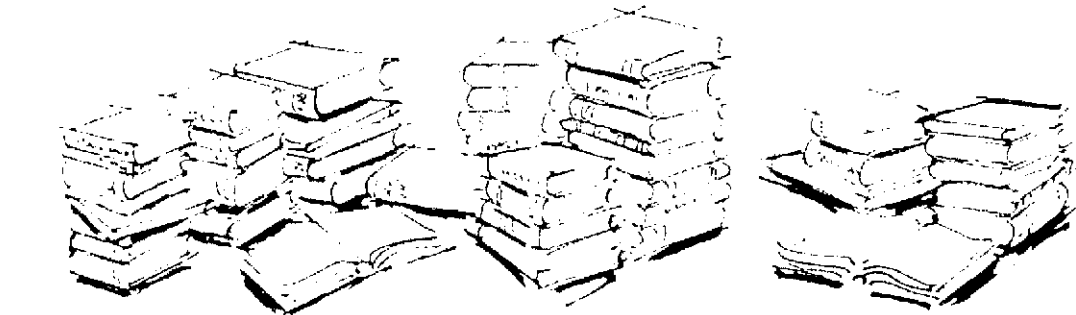

The couple who had agreed to adopt the child backed out.

The mother left without signing papers authorizing the child's adoption by anyone else. Authorities don't know where she lives.

Hospital officials notified police Tuesday.

Police and welfare officials say they have no authority to move "baby girl," the only name she has.

Juvenile officials may go to court about the matter.

Nixon to See 'Other' Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to go beyond the palaces and ministries to the man-on-the-street to get a feeling of all the people's thinking during his European tour.

In addition to the some 50 hours of official conferences in London, Bonn, Paris and Rome, Nixon has asked to see small groups of citizens who can provide him with a sampling of their opinion to go along with the official views he will be hearing.

"We want people who will talk to the President and who will give him some feel of what people in the country are thinking about and talking about," a White House official said. "He wants off the record meetings in order to encourage these people to talk with him."

Eight-Day Mission

Nixon leaves early Sunday for Brussels, first stop on an eight day mission which takes him on to London, Bonn, Berlin, Rome, Paris and then back to Rome. He returns to the United States March 2.

The schedule is crowded with conferences, ceremonies, working dinners, and a period set aside each day for the conduct of normal White House business.

The citizen sessions are an innovation and a White House official admits to some misgivings about the guest list—whether Nixon will really get the cross section he seeks.

The selections are being made by U.S. embassies and a Nixon aide said the President would like to see people ranging from working men to philosophers.

Most of the meetings will bring eight to 15 people to see the President for about an hour.

"It's a room full of comfortable chairs and cups of coffee," an official said. "The President will come in and encourage conversation. That's as much format as there is."

The format for Nixon's public travels is one of pomp and ceremony guided by the protocol of the nation involved. But a White House official said that even the formal dinners, most of them stag affairs, will be working sessions.

Meeting in Brussels

Nixon round of conferences is to begin shortly after his Sunday night arrival in Brussels, with a meeting with Belgian leaders.

Bank Tax Case Will Be Test of Congress

Treasury Officer Ruled Bad Debts Did Not Include Government Obligations

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The suddenly sprouting congressional urge for tax reform will get an early test when the banking industry, which usually wins what it wants in Washington, attempts to pry open a recently closed tax loophole.

The closing came last fall in a quiet, clever maneuver by Stanley Surrey, winding up eight frustrating years as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for Tax Policy. With a stroke of the pen Surrey boosted by an estimated $100 million a year yaxes paid by commercial banks.

As Surrey was well aware, the outgoing Johnson team deduction equal to 2.4 per cent and the incoming Nixon team at of their outstanding loans as a treasury had ties to the so-called bad debt reserve. banking industry which made it. Since actual bad debts are all but impossible to overrule well under 1 per cent of loans, his regulation. Thus, only Con this formula amounts to a ting among lobbyists is that Kennedy, was coming to Wash- gress can restore the bankers' bountiful gift from Uncle Sam. Surrey, an ardent tax reform- sign with a blast against the er, had tasted more failure than Johnson tax policy — a report success at the treasury and last confirmed by some and denied fall was chagrined when Presi- dent Johnson suppressed his tax reform proposals. As a va- dictory, herefore, Surrey began rewriting tax regulations in his closing days — including the one on bank taxation.

Instead of reducing the 2.4 per cent, Surrey ruled that the bad debt percentage could not be applied to absolutely safe loans — most notably loans to the U.S. government. Nobody knows exactly how much that will cost the bankers in 1969, but $100 million is the educated guess. Accordingly, Surrey's stroke of the pen was an instant tax reform of major proportions.

Threatened to Quit
Neither of Surrey's two superiors in the Johnson trea- sury — Secretary Henry H. (Joe) Fowler or Under Secre- tary Joseph Barr — cared for the change. One report circu- lating among lobbyists is that Kennedy, was coming to Wash- gress can restore the bankers' bountiful gift from Uncle Sam. Property Tax Relief Plan Given Backing

Proposals Ask More State Funds to Help Homeowners

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Pressure is building up to appropriate more state funds for general local property tax credits and for homestead tax relief.

One measure would liberalize the income limits to qualify for the homestead tax relief act, which was recently hailed as one of the unique programs in the country to lessen the impact of property taxes upon aged and retired persons.

more liberal credits and an increase of the number of beneficiaries.
The state department of revenue says the change would cost the state about $3 million a year above the present outlays for homestead tax credits.
Meanwhile, the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, explaining that the general property tax relief program started by the state seven years ago was intended to give all property taxpayers a discount of 10 per cent on their local tax bills, has informed legislators that in the intervening period the amount of such credit has dwindled to only 7 per cent because state appropriations have not kept pace with rising local tax rates.
It has offered a bill to restore the 10 per cent credit guarantee, which would raise state expenditures for the program by about 35 per cent, or from about $56 millions to about $74 millions next year.
The homestead tax program aged 65 and over and earning less than $3,500 a year are aids payable by the state treasury to property tax reductions on homesteads. A pending law to soften resistance to the bill would raise the income limit first state sales tax adopted to $5,312, paving the way for seven years ago.

Fund Drive Starts For Drug Abuse Education Project
A drive for funds to finance a pilot program on drug abuse education was started Wednesday night in Appleton.
A $100 donation from the Shangra La, a coffee house for high school students, matched by the Appleton Jaycees, were the first project contributions.
The education project, to start March 4, is without funds for needed materials, said Tom Long, project president.
He said funds are needed to import lecturers, rent facilities, purchase and rent films, and to make tape recordings to be used in the project.
Brochures containing narcotics information are now being prepared under supervision of Dr. Darold Treffert, superintendent of Winnebago State Hospital, Oshkosh.
